Our Work

Feature project

1000 Hearts - Sarah De Jonge

1000 Hearts already had a strong presence on social media, but Sarah felt that it was time to expand the kindness project and better engage with followers.

Sarah engaged Domin8 Designs to develop a website that provided additional content and resources, but also reflected the brand and values of the project.

1000 Hearts

Project outcomes

- An online home - the new website provided a hub to link back to for existing accounts of 1000 Hearts.
- Consistent brand - the clever use of hearts and 'making' across the website enhances the themes behind the kindness project.
- Calls to action - areas such as the heartist and getting involved made it easier for people to contact and engage with Sarah.
- Easy to update - once taught how, the inbuilt content management system (CMS) made it easy for Sarah to add or edit content across the website.

Our Services

We're also here to help

Knowing where to start and the costs of developing a new website can be challenging - we're here to help.

At Domin8 Designs we follow a simple design process, but this doesn't mean simple websites.

It means we deliver professional outcomes in an efficient timeframe and importantly; keep costs affordable - something we know is important to start-ups and new businesses.

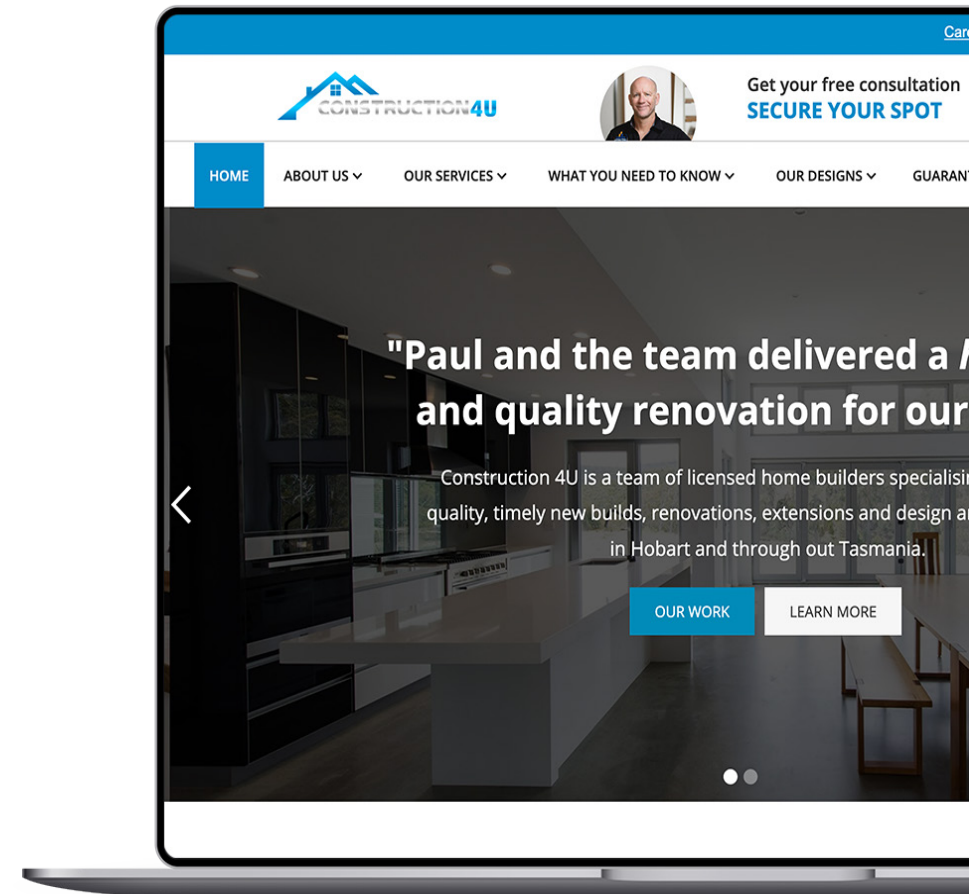

Our Work

Feature project

Construction 4U - Paul Westwood

Paul approached Domin8 Designs to develop a website for his new building and construction business.

The website had to reflect the existing brand and provide information to visitors across a range of categories.

Project outcomes

- Visual importance - the new website uses images and colour to attract visitors to important areas and the quality of work;
- Content hierarchy - a visual and structural information hierarchy makes the significant amount of content more legible for visitors
- CMS Use - areas including 'our designs' and 'our work' were setup using the content management system - making adding new items easy.
- Call to action - Paul placed importance on making contacting him easy. Large buttons that are contrasting in colour help visitors easily engage with the business.
