In this pulse-pounding fantasy romance, Nisha J. Tuli brings together elements of "A Court of Thorns and Roses" and "The Hunger Games" in her book. The story follows Lor, a young woman who has spent twelve years suffering under the rule of the cruel Aurora King. She longs to escape and exact revenge on him. Instead, she finds herself competing against nine other women for the role of queen in the Sun King's court. The stakes are high, with only one winner able to claim the Sun King's heart and earn her freedom. However, Lor faces fierce opposition from the other competitors, who will stop at nothing to eliminate her from the competition. If she loses, she risks being returned to the evil Aurora King, or worse. What's in store for fans of A Court of Thorns and Roses? Nisha J. Tuli presents a pulse-pounding, enemies-to-lovers fantasy romance that combines fae magic with high-stakes trials and a dark prince. Ten women from different worlds are thrown into a deadly contest, where only one can capture the Sun King's heart. Lor, the protagonist, has spent twelve long years under the Aurora King's rule, driven by her desire for revenge. When a surprise release throws her into the rival Sun King's court, Lor must navigate treacherous alliances and rivalries to claim her freedom and victory in the Sun Queen Trials.
