Craft - Crazy Splatter Paintings like Jackson Pollock!

What parent hasn't seen the work of Jackson Pollock and thought- my kids could do that! Well today they will! So put on some clothes you don't care too much for, grab your paint and a canvas, and head outside!

Take a picture of your painting and add it to our comments!!

Materials:

- Surface to paint on- either a canvas or piece of cardboard (you can paint a base color onto the cardboard if you want)
- Tempera or other washable paint- Acrylic will stain clothes and shoes and be a lot more difficult to get out of hair so beware! Tempera is recommended.
- Bowls- 1 for each color you are using
- Large paint brushes
- Tarp or other covering to protect your work surface

Directions:

1. Cover your work area, working outside is preferable, be sure to cover well beyond your canvas as the paint will be flying!
2. Pour your paint into a bowl and start flinging paint around! It is important to fling your paint from all directions- up and down, side to side, diagonally- this way the paint splatters will look very random and unique!

Science Activity - Oobleck

Oobleck is really strange. If you move slowly or hold it still, it behaves like a liquid.

But if you quickly agitate it or attempt to roll it up, it behaves like a solid!
