ABOUT THE COLLECTION

Dr. Isidore Cohn, Jr., Emeritus Chairman and Professor of Surgery at the LSU Health Sciences Center School of Medicine in New Orleans, LA, was 94 when he died in October 2015. Raised in New Orleans and named for his father who was also a prominent surgeon, Dr. Cohn’s medical career, in which he served as the Chairman of the Department of Surgery for 27 years, one of the longest tenures in the annals of the profession, culminated with his being honored first by that professor and chairmanship being named for him, and subsequently by the naming of a state-of-the-art surgical training facility – the Isidore Cohn, Jr., M.D. Student Learning Center.

Beginning with an early interest in collecting Steuben glass, Dr. Cohn utilized his interest in the arts to extend his legacy well beyond the medical profession. The recipient of the Chairman’s Award from the arts council of New Orleans, and the Isaac Delgado Award from the New Orleans Museum of Art (NOMA), Dr. Cohn was especially proud that his collections of Steuben (begun when he was in his early twenties), and Chinese Jade (assembled with his wife Marianne). The NOMA recognized both of their collections in major exhibitions. The 2004 landmark exhibit, “Crystal Clear,” featured 159 pieces from their vast Steuben collection. From 2013-2014 the exhibit, “Chinese Jade from the Collection of Marianne and Isidore Cohn, Jr.” was up at the NOMA.

Admiring, discovering, and pursuing special pieces were always essential joys in building their collections, but equally important was the process of learning more about the people who made these beautiful objects, the means and methods of their fabrication, the context in which these pieces were first intended for use, and ultimately sharing what they learned with friends and family. Above all else was the quiet pleasure he took in living with the collections of Steuben and contemporary art glass, Chinese jade, antique and modern silver, and other artwork – juxtaposing one material, color, or period against another; listening for the works to “speak” with one another; and, having them become a part of his inner life. This was the ultimate pleasure derived from a lifetime of collecting, something inherently understood by all collectors, and soon appreciated by those just beginning.

1) iGavel is not an auctioneer. While some of the Sellers on the site are auctioneers and are licensed according to the jurisdiction where they are located, iGavel is only a venue to sell fine art, antiques, and collectibles online. iGavel is not party to any third party transactions which take place and therefore cannot be held responsible for any omissions or errors. iGavel is not responsible for any aspect of the listings nor for the actions of any of the Sellers on the site and cannot vouch for the accuracy or legality of the descriptions and cannot ensure that buyers or Sellers will adhere to the site guidelines or if a transaction will be completed. All Sellers on the site are however contractually bound with iGavel and may be dealt with for any violations of the contract terms.

2) Bidding and Buying. Users who bid on an item are required to complete the transaction. A bid is a legally binding agreement to complete a sale. Successful buyers who fail to complete a transaction may be blocked from the site or from that Seller's lots offered on the site, and at iGavel's discretion, may be required to post a non-refundable deposit prior to bidding on any lots. iGavel may, at its discretion, ask bidders to supply us with a government-issued photo ID, the name and address of which match the registration name and address on the buyer's iGavelAuctions.com profile page.

a) All lots on the site have a minimum bid or reserve requirement. Sellers are not obligated to sell an item unless the sale closes and the minimum bid or reserve has been met.

b) Owners of property may not bid on their own lots.

c) All lots are subject to extended bidding. In this process, bids received in the final 5 minutes of a sale will reset the bid timer back to 5 minutes. This time extension allows all users who wish to bid, time to bid.

d) Bid retractions may be permitted on iGavel under special circumstances. iGavel retains complete control and has the right to terminate, modify, extend, or re-start any bid for any reason. Should a lot on which you are bidding be modified, extended, or discontinued, you agree to hold iGavel and its Officers and agents harmless from any legal action. Occasionally we recognize that bids are made in error and want to help users who make a mistake. iGavel may decide upon consultation with the Seller either to continue the transaction, extend the duration of the sale, or close the item early and relist the item. Notification to other bidders will be made on lots which have been closed early and/or relisted. Should a contested bid take place, the user should contact the Seller immediately. Any fraudulent bidding or other activity on the site will be cause for immediate loss of user privileges.

e) iGavel reserves the right to reject bids, suspend, or block any user's access to our site at our sole discretion. Users who are blocked or otherwise prohibited from bidding acknowledge that permission to bid is given at the sole discretion of iGavel. Sellers on iGavel are authorized to reject bids or bidders and to set the terms for where and to whom an item may be sold or shipped.

f) After winning an auction, both the high bidder and the Seller will receive a courtesy email notice. All Sellers are required to obtain the successful bidder's information directly from the site. The courtesy forwarding by iGavel does not remove the responsibility of the Seller directly obtaining the purchaser's contact information. iGavel is in no way responsible for any delays, incorrect email data, or other errors which may result from providing this courtesy email contact.

g) iGavel and the Sellers reserve the right to remove any lot from the site, modify descriptions, or make any changes to any auction at any time. iGavel and the Sellers may for any reason and at any time refuse to process a bid, restrict bidding, or block a bidder from the site. All users of this site agree to hold iGavel and the Sellers completely blameless for any of the above.

h) Should there be any malfunction of the electronic bidding system during an ongoing auction, or any outage whereby bidders cannot gain access to the auction, we reserve the right to continue and extend the time of the auction, close the auction, and/or re-list any lot or lots which may have closed during an outage. We also reserve the right to retract winning bids that occurred during the outage and re-offer those lots affected. Winning bidders affected by such action will be notified by iGavel Auctions or the Seller within a reasonable amount of time. In such cases where a winning bid is retracted, any automated notification received by the bidder will become null.

3) Buyer’s Premium. A buyer’s premium will be applied to all lots sold, to be paid by the purchaser as part of the purchase price (purchase price and buyer’s premium), which is then subject to all applicable local taxes or user fees (taxes, shipping and handling).

4) Seller’s Warranty. The Sellers on iGavel warrant for the benefit of the buyer that:

a) The Seller has the right to sell the item, there are no encumbrances on the lot offered for sale, and the clear and good title will pass to the buyer without any claims. The Seller does not have any information which would lead a reasonable person to believe the object was stolen.

b) If applicable, the object has been lawfully imported or exported and all appropriate duties or fees paid and the Seller will facilitate the shipping of the item to the successful buyer.

5) Guarantee Policy. All items on iGavel are guaranteed for accuracy and condition, pursuant to state, federal, and other laws and regulations. Residents of Virginia should be aware that the guarantees for accuracy and condition on items bought on the iGavel site are for a period of 30 days. Guarantees are
a) Except for lots sold on the iGavel Interiors category, each seller guarantees the accuracy of the object as described in the lot heading for a period of 45 days from the closing date of the sale of that lot on iGavel. This guarantee is given only to the person who bought the lot and not to any third party or subsequent owner.

b) Except for items on iGavel Interiors (see a), each seller guarantees the condition of the lot as described in the lot condition field for a period of 45 days from the closing date of the sale of that lot on iGavel. The guarantee warranties that the description of the lot condition is substantially correct based upon a fair reading of the lot's description. No guarantees of condition are made for any frames, mountings, glass, or bases accompanying a lot.

c) All property sold on iGavel is expected to show some evidence of age and wear. Other than the specific guarantees for accuracy or condition, all property is sold "as is" and the Seller and iGavel make no representations or warranties about any other aspect of the property including reproduction or intellectual property rights.

d) All buyers on iGavel agree to hold iGavel completely harmless in any dispute and that any refund or canceled sale constitutes the only remedy for any damages. Damages may occur under no circumstances exceed the purchase price (closing bid plus buyer's premium) plus shipping and insurance costs if applicable for that lot.

e) If any Seller breaches any of the terms of guarantee, the buyer must immediately contact the Seller and seek recompense, returning the item in the same condition in which it was received. Once the item has been returned, it is the Seller's responsibility to immediately refund the buyer upon receipt of the lot. Refund will be remitted in the same manner that payment was sent on original purchase (e.g. credit card, wire transfer, Western Union, or money order/bank check, etc.) for product purchase price and buyer's premium. Shipping charges are paid by the customer and are not refundable.

f) Payment Policy. Payment will be made immediately and will constitute the total purchase price of the high bid plus the buyer's premium plus any associated transaction fees. Payment must be made in a manner acceptable to the Seller. Lots will not be shipped until good payment has been made. If payments are not received within 14 days in spite of communications and attempts to receive payments by the Seller, the Seller may choose to cancel the sale and reoffer the lot. Any payments made by a purchaser that are incomplete during this period are forfeited by the purchaser, as well as any title to the lot in question, unless a mutually acceptable agreement between the Seller and the purchaser is in effect.

a) All items must be picked up or arranged to be shipped within 14 days of the sale closing. If items have not been paid for and picked up or shipped within the 14 day limit, the Purchaser will forfeit ownership of the lot/s and the Seller may charge a late payment fee, storage fee, or choose to pursue legal action. The Buyer will be held liable for damages incurred, including the original purchase price, costs to reoffer the item, full commissions, legal fees, storage fees, and other related expenses, and the Buyer's account may be deactivated by iGavel or the Seller.

b) Any successful bidder who fails to pay for a lot as specified in the Terms and Conditions of Sale will forfeit all ownership of the lot or lots in question and iGavel or the iGavel Associate may choose at their discretion, to resell or donate the lot/s for an amount equal to penalties as applicable in the Conditions of Sale, including the total purchase price and other associated charges.

c) Lots that are not picked up within 30 days will be considered forfeited by the purchaser and iGavel or the iGavel Associate will have the right to resell, donate, or otherwise dispose of the property in a manner of the choosing of iGavel or the iGavel Associate. iGavel reserves the right to charge the Buyer for moving or other expenses incurred during this process.
