6. FAQ

Frequently Asked Electrical Questions

- How much does an electrician cost near me?

The price varies from project to project but we always start with a base price. We save you money by charging per project and not per hour. We source parts and materials that are quality yet inexpensive. Our fixed-fee for service contracts are favorable amongst the more traditional electrician prices. The proposal you receive will show all the necessary itemizations including parts and labor, so you always know, upfront, the cost of electrical installation, electrical upgrade, and electrical repair. Save even more money by asking us about our low-cost maintenance contracts!

- What types of electricians do you have?

We have residential electricians who work and specialize in home electricity. Our commercial and industrial electricians are highly trained in construction sites and mechanical electrical systems. Each job may require varying degrees of electricians, such as journeyman, apprentices, and master electricians (all of which we have on-staff).

- When do I need to hire an electrician?

The best practice is to already have an electrician in mind. Hiring the right electrician means knowing the company's history and decorum. You also need to check for licensing and experience. Save yourself costly repairs by familiarizing yourself with an electrician before an emergency happens. Even if this is your first time coming into contact with EMUL8, call us if:

- Your outlets or switches are no longer working
- You have blown a fuse
- You keep tripping the circuit breaker
- You have outdated outlets that don't fit your current plugs
- There aren't enough outlets to power your electrical devices (using power strips in excess can overload your electricity)
- Your lights are flickering
- You hear a humming or buzzing noise coming from your walls
- Wall outlets are warm to the touch
- Your fuse box is emitting a smoky scent
- You see frayed or singed wires
- Anytime you need advanced electrical services like rewiring your house, installing new lighting fixtures, servicing or replacing control panels, etc.

Don't get caught up in DIY electrical projects. You will end up costing yourself more money and your safety in the process!

- What does GFCI mean?

GFCI is an acronym for "ground fault circuit interrupter." GFCI outlets are needed to protect appliances from overheating, effectively minimizing the risk of shock, burns, fire, and explosions. A GFCI outlet is a preventative measure that works by breaking the circuit every time there is a current imbalance. This could happen as a result of high consumption (appliances that use electricity all day, i.e. a refrigerator) or interruption of current (like dropping a curling iron into water). Not only that, according to the National Electric Code (NEC), all homes and businesses must be compliant and equipped with GFCI outlets.

- If my home or business needs to be rewired, will I need to move out temporarily?

No. Our top-of-the-line tools and techniques will allow you to remain safely in your residence or commercial property while the rewiring process continues (lasts 1-2 weeks in most cases).

- How long do electrical repairs take?

Many times, electrical repairs can be made the same day. If we need extensive documentation (like blueprints, permits, etc) then the process will take longer. At EMUL8 Electric, we always strive for quick turnaround times and we always communicate how long a project will take before we commit to doing it, and definitely before you pay for it.

- Should I call an electrician if I lose power?

The first thing you're going to want to do is call your power company to ensure the issue is not widespread. If you suspect that only your house or business has lost power, then give us a call and we will come out and do an inspection at any time of the day!

- My smoke detector keeps chirping. Is something wrong?

Your smoke detector should chirp consistently if your battery is low and needs changing. If the smoke detector has an irregular chirping pattern, then it may need to be replaced.

- How often do I need to have an electrical inspection?

To ensure your property is up-to-date on all compliances and electrical codes, schedule to have your electrical safety inspection every 5 years. You should still have a routine maintenance inspection annually, however.

- Should I upgrade to LED lights?

Homes and businesses who are looking to save money and power on energy consumption should most certainly upgrade to LED lights! It's cost-effective to implement and with 50,000-hour life expectancy, you can leave an LED light on 24/7 and it will last about 5.5 years. And with a 6:1 power consumption rate over antiquated (and phased-out) incandescent bulbs, you'd be doing yourself and the environment a favor.
