

Revised Public Notice: Low Water Pressure
(as of 8/1/2019)

The City of Burkburnett water department staff has been able to resolve the water pressure issues in and around the Sycamore/Meadow/Berry/Harriet St area. The pressures were restored this morning around 10:00 a.m.

After continued investigation and collection of additional hydrant data, our staff was able to narrow the search and pinpoint the problem area, allowing the City to reconfigure the water distribution system to allow for constant water pressure of approximately 50 psi for the affected area, which is a normal operating range for the water distribution system.

The City thanks you for partnering with us through this issue. Without the helpful information we received from the citizens in the affected area, we would not have had all the information needed to make the changes necessary to correct the issue.

City crews will continue to review and examine the valves in the system and make upgrades and repairs to the system as needed. Thank You.
