Michael C. Bird

Partner

Michael Bird joined Watanabe Ing in 1992. Mr. Bird has earned a respected reputation among colleagues as an efficient and profoundly knowledgeable attorney in his fields of practice.

He has experience with all types of dispute resolution, including litigation, alternative dispute resolution, and appellate practice. Through his expertise, knowledge and unique abilities, Mr. Bird has successfully expanded his practice in several key crossover areas: construction, real estate, financial institutions and government contracting.

Mr. Bird's litigation work has involved defending financial institutions in lender liability cases, such as successfully defending federal Truth in Lending Act claims and wrongful foreclosure actions in federal and state courts. Mr. Bird has prosecuted and defended numerous real estate quiet title actions.

He has also represented clients in construction litigation matters, including breach of contract, defective work and mechanic's lien litigation. He has displayed his unique ability to be involved in construction legal matters from construction and design contract drafting to defect litigation, and everything in between.
