Jeff brings a wealth of practical, real life expertise and presence to his speaking engagements. He's the former CEO of one of the country's largest healthcare receivables management companies where his philosophy, "you improve the bottom line by focusing on the people side of business", was put into action on a daily basis. As a result, the company experienced dramatic growth and success. As the former CEO of a prestigious polling and political opinion research corporation, his company was involved in strategic decisions for congressional, senatorial and presidential races. While working under this highly stressful and time-sensitive political climate, his leadership and management skills helped people perform beyond even their own levels of expectation. As a successful basketball coach, Jeff was selected by Gillette as one of America's outstanding coaches and appeared nationally on radio and TV promoting leadership, teamwork and positive attitudes.

His work has been published in: Fast Company, INC., American Management Association, American Express, Smart Blog on Leadership, Training Magazine, Business Management Daily, TLNT, CEO Refresher, SHRM, The Non Profit Times, Leadership Excellence Magazine, Communication Briefing, Industrial Management Magazine, ACA and Law 360.

He is currently president of Wolf Management Consultants, one of the most comprehensive consulting, coaching and training firms in the world specializing in helping people, teams and organizations achieve maximum effectiveness.

Throughout the years, his principles, strategies and inspiration have influenced dramatic growth and changes in countless people, teams and organizations. Here are just a few...

Fortune 500 Companies such as

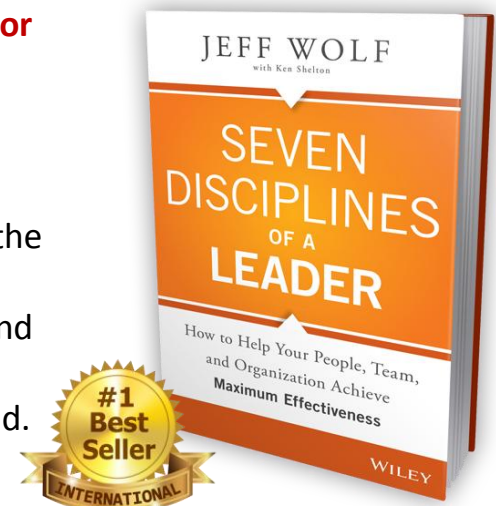

- GE • Pfizer • CVS Health • Citigroup • Abbott • AT&T
- General Mills • Cummins • Baxter International • Monsanto
- Unisys • USG • CB Richard Ellis • Qualcomm • Raytheon

And well known clients such as
