The accreditation process applies CARF's internationally recognized standards during an on-site survey conducted by peer surveyors. Accreditation, however, is an ongoing process that distinguishes a provider's service delivery and signals to the public that the provider is committed to continuous performance improvement, responsive to feedback, and accountable to the community and its other stakeholders.

CARF accreditation promotes providers' demonstration of value and Quality Across the Lifespan® of millions of persons served through application of rigorous organizational and program standards organized around the ASPIRE to Excellence® continuous quality improvement framework. CARF accreditation has been the recognized benchmark of quality health and human services for more than 50 years.

Survey Findings

This report provides a summary of the organization's strengths and identifies the sections of the CARF standards that were applied on the survey and the findings in each area. In conjunction with its evaluation of conformance to the specific program/service standards, CARF assessed conformance to its business practice standards, referred to as Section 1. ASPIRE to Excellence, which are designed to support the delivery of the program(s)/service(s) within a sound business operating framework to promote long-term success.

The specific standards applied from each section vary based on a variety of factors, including, but not limited to, the scope(s) of the program(s)/service(s), population(s) served, location(s), methods of service delivery, and survey type. Information about the specific standards applied on each survey is included in the standards manual and other instructions that may be provided by CARF.

Areas of Strength

CARF found that Aspire Wellness Center, Inc. demonstrated the following strengths:

- Aspire Wellness Center has a Mommy and Me play group therapy for families with children six years of age and under in its gym in its offices. The group works on yoga, relaxation, and relationship building. This is an example of the organization being responsive to the populations it serves and recognizing and utilizing its therapists' specialty skills.
- The organization is in the process of establishing complementary services for clients served in the areas of intensive outpatient treatment and psychiatric rehabilitation community integration services. This is based on feedback from clients and opportunities designed by the state. The new services will expand the array of offerings for the community.
- In May 2019, Aspire Wellness Center transitioned from paper documentation to an electronic health record, MedEZ™, and, although the transition has been relatively smooth, more components are rolling out over time. The new client portal will be rolled out soon, allowing clients to interact with the organization on everything, except actual scheduling. The organization is also exploring other ways to enable technology to support the efficiency and effectiveness of processes such as training, performance indicator measurements, record reviews, and analytics.

- In an effort to support its staff members, Aspire Wellness Center has become a CEU provider recognized by the state. This allows the specific topic-based trainings that the staff members receive every other week to count toward therapists' licensing requirements. This is a perquisite not many organizations offer.
- Aspire Wellness Center has a client advisory board that meets bimonthly and focuses on issues of accessibility, services expansion, perception, and customer service. Most of the suggestions from this group have been implemented by the organization and Aspire Wellness Center looks forward to this focused feedback for future performance improvement initiatives.
- The organization's leadership and staff members are focused on the mission and vision of the organization. Although there is turnover, the core group of leadership staff members are consistently looking for ways to recruit and retain staff members who can easily assimilate into the organization's culture. They are enthusiastic and dedicated to the quality improvement process.
- Clients express that the services provided by Aspire Wellness Center have helped them achieve a higher level of functioning and have improved their ability to live satisfying and fulfilling lives. They also stated that they feel respected and are treated as an equal member of the treatment team, where their input and goals are regularly incorporated into the services provided.
- Aspire Wellness Center's services are highly accessible to the persons served with evening hours offered several times during the week and weekend hours available on an as-needed basis. Therapists also provide services in the community to ease the difficulty that clients have with transportation.
- The prescribing team at Aspire Wellness Center is an integral component of the treatment team. Nurse practitioners serve as a tremendous resource, significantly contributing to clinical services and complementing physician services. Due to the collaborative nature of the team, Aspire has been able to significantly reduce the wait time to see a prescribing professional, with most appointments occurring within one to three weeks. Clients report that the physician and nurse practitioners are warm and engaging and value their input.
- Aspire Wellness Center was incredibly organized and well prepared for the accreditation survey. It was evident a lot of time was put into the materials provided, enabling the conduction of a thorough, efficient survey.

Opportunities for Quality Improvement

The CARF survey process identifies opportunities for continuous improvement, a core concept of “aspiring to excellence.” This section of the report lists the sections of the CARF standards that were applied on the survey, including a description of the business practice area and/or the specific program(s)/service(s) surveyed and a summary of the key areas addressed in that section of the standards.

In this section of the report, a recommendation identifies any standard for which CARF determined that the organization did not meet the minimum requirements to demonstrate full conformance. All recommendations must be addressed in a QIP submitted to CARF.

In addition, consultation may be provided for areas of or specific standards where the surveyor(s) documented suggestions that the organization may consider to improve its business or service delivery practices. Note that consultation may be offered for areas of specific standards that do not have any recommendations. Such consultation does not indicate nonconformance to the standards; it is intended to offer ideas that the organization might find helpful in its ongoing quality improvement efforts. The organization is not required to address consultation.

When CARF surveyors visit an organization, their role is that of independent peer reviewers, and their goal is not only to gather and assess information to determine conformance to the standards, but also to engage in relevant and meaningful consultative dialogue. Not all consultation or suggestions discussed during the survey are noted in this report. The organization is encouraged to review any notes made during the survey and consider the consultation or suggestions that were discussed.

During the process of preparing for a CARF accreditation survey, an organization may conduct a detailed self-assessment and engage in deliberations and discussions within the organization as well as with external stakeholders as it considers ways to implement and use the standards to guide its quality improvement efforts. The organization is encouraged to review these discussions and deliberations as it considers ways to implement innovative changes and further advance its business and service delivery practices.

Previous versions of the personal safety plan included these items, but the new electronic health record does not. It should be updated to include them.

2.D. Transition/Discharge

Description

Transition, continuing care, or discharge planning assists the persons served to move from one level of care to another within the organization or to obtain services that are needed but are not available within the organization. The transition process is planned with the active participation of each person served. Transition may include planned discharge, placement on inactive status, movement to a different level of service or intensity of contact, or a re-entry program in a criminal justice system.

The transition plan is a document developed with and for the person served and other interested participants to guide the person served in activities following transition/discharge to support the gains made during program participation. It is prepared with the active participation of person served when he or she moves to another level of care, after-care program, or community-based services. The transition plan is meant to be a plan that the person served uses to identify the support that is needed to prevent a recurrence of symptoms or reduction in functioning. It is expected that the person served receives a copy of the transition plan.

A discharge summary is a clinical document written by the program personnel who are involved in the services provided to the person served and is completed when the person leaves the organization (planned or unplanned). It is a document that is intended for the record of the person served and released, with appropriate authorization, to describe the course of services that the organization provided and the response by the person served.

Just as the assessment is critical to the success of treatment, the transition services are critical for the support of the individual's ongoing recovery or well-being. The organization proactively attempts to connect the persons served with the receiving service provider and contact the persons served after formal transition or discharge to gather needed information related to their post-discharge status. Discharge information is reviewed to determine the effectiveness of its services and whether additional services were needed.

Transition planning may be included as part of the person-centered plan. The transition plan and/or discharge summary may be a combined document or part of the plan for the person served as long as it is clear whether the information relates to transition or pre-discharge planning or identifies the person's discharge or departure from the program.

Key Areas Addressed

- Referral or transition to other services
- Active participation of persons served
- Transition planning at earliest point
- Unplanned discharge referrals
- Plan addresses strengths, needs, abilities, preferences
- Follow up for persons discharged for aggressiveness

Recommendations

There are no recommendations in this area.

2.E. Medication Use

Description

Medication use is the practice of controlling, administering, and/or prescribing medications to persons served in response to specific symptoms, behaviors, or conditions for which the use of medications is indicated and deemed efficacious. The use of medication is one component of treatment directed toward maximizing the functioning of the persons served while reducing their specific symptoms. Prior to the use of medications other therapeutic interventions should be considered, except in circumstances that call for a more urgent intervention.

Medication use includes all prescribed medications, whether or not the program is involved in prescribing, and may include over-the-counter or alternative medications. Alternative medications can include herbal or mineral supplements, vitamins, homeopathic remedies, hormone therapy, or culturally specific treatments.

Medication control is identified as the process of physically controlling, storing, transporting, and disposing of medications, including those self-administered by the person served.

Medication administration is the preparing and giving of prescription and nonprescription medications by authorized and trained personnel to the person served. Self-administration is the application of a medication (whether by oral ingestion, injection, inhalation, or other means) by the person served to his/her own body. This may include the program storing the medication for the person served, personnel handing the bottle or prepackaged medication dose to the person served, instructing or verbally prompting the person served to take the medication, coaching the person served through the steps to ensure proper adherence, and/or closely observing the person served self-administering the medication.

Prescribing is the result of an evaluation that determines if there is a need for medication and what medication is to be used in the treatment of the person served. Prior to providing a prescription for medication, the prescriber obtains the informed consent of the individual authorized to consent to treatment and, if applicable, the assent of the person served. Prescription orders may be verbal or written and detail what medication should be given to whom, in what formulation and dose, by what route, when, how frequently, and for what length of time.

Key Areas Addressed

- Scope of medication services provided by the program(s) seeking accreditation
- Education and training provided to direct service personnel at orientation and at least annually
- Education and training provided to persons served, family members, and others identified by the persons served, in accordance with identified needs
- Written procedures that address medication control, administration, and/or prescribing, as applicable to the program
- Use of treatment guidelines and protocols to promote prescribing consistent with standards of care, if applicable to the program
- Peer review of prescribing practices, if applicable to the program

Recommendations

2.E.6.o.

2.E.6.p.

Because the organization provides prescribing of medications, written procedures should be implemented that also address an evaluation of the risk of diversion and behaviors related to stockpiling of medication.

2.E.8.e.

2.E.8.f.

It is recommended that the organization implement written procedures that also address the expected course of treatment, including discontinuation, and the ongoing reassessment of the current medication profile.

2.E.9.a.(1)

2.E.9.a.(4)(a)

2.E.9.a.(4)(d)

2.E.9.a.(5)(c)(i)

2.E.9.a.(5)(c)(ii)

2.E.9.b.(3)

It is recommended that the organization consistently conduct a documented peer review of medication at least annually. The review should include an assessment of the appropriateness of each medication, as determined by the needs and preferences of the person served; a periodic reevaluation of continued use related to the primary condition being treated; and a determination of whether there was simultaneous use of multiple medications, including polypharmacy and co-pharmacy. The information collected from the peer review process should be incorporated into the performance measurement and management system.

2.F. Promoting Nonviolent Practices

Description

CARF-accredited programs strive to create learning environments for the persons served and to support the development of skills that build and strengthen resiliency and well-being. The establishment of quality relationships between personnel and the persons served provides the foundation for a safe and nurturing environment. Providers are mindful of creating an environment that cultivates:

- Engagement.
- Partnership.
- Holistic approaches.
- Nurturance.

- Respect.
- Hope.
- Self direction.

It is recognized that persons served may require support to fully benefit from their services. This may include, but is not limited to, praise and encouragement, verbal prompts, written expectations, clarity of rules and expectations, or environmental supports.

Even with support there are times when persons served may demonstrate signs of fear, anger, or pain that could lead to unsafe behaviors. Personnel are trained to recognize and respond to these behaviors through various interventions, such as changes to the physical environment, sensory-based calming strategies, engagement in meaningful activities, redirection, active listening, approaches that have been effective for the individual in the past, etc. When these interventions are not effective in de-escalating a situation and there is imminent risk to the person served or others, seclusion or restraint may be used to ensure safety. Seclusion and restraint are never considered treatment interventions; they are always considered actions of last resort.

As the use of seclusion or restraint creates potential physical and psychological risks to the persons subject to the interventions, to the personnel who administer them, and to those who witness the practice, an organization that utilizes seclusion or restraint should have the elimination thereof as its goal.

Seclusion refers to restriction of the person served to a segregated room or space with the person's freedom to leave physically restricted. Voluntary time out is not considered seclusion, even though the voluntary time out may occur in response to verbal direction; the person served is considered in seclusion only if freedom to leave the segregated room or space is denied.

Restraint is the use of physical force or mechanical means to temporarily limit a person's freedom of movement; chemical restraint is the involuntary emergency administration of medication as an immediate response to a dangerous behavior. The following are not considered restraints for the purposes of this section of standards:

- Assistive devices used for persons with physical or medical needs.
 - Briefly holding a person served, without undue force, for the purpose of comforting him or her or to prevent self-injurious behavior or injury to others.
 - Holding a person's hand or arm to safely guide him or her from one area to another or away from another person.
 - Security doors designed to prevent elopement or wandering.
 - Security measures for forensic purposes, such as the use of handcuffs instituted by law enforcement personnel.
- When permissible, consideration is given to removal of physical restraints while the person is receiving services in the behavioral healthcare setting.
- In a correctional setting, the use of seclusion or restraint for purposes of security.

Seclusion or restraint by trained and competent personnel is used only when other, less restrictive measures have been ineffective to protect the person served or others from unsafe behavior. Peer restraint is not an acceptable alternative to restraint by personnel. Seclusion or restraint is not used as a means of coercion, discipline, convenience, or retaliation or in lieu of adequate programming or staffing.
