

Product Teams Explained

Approach

Crema is made up of collaborative experts working in small, cross-disciplined teams to create brilliant digital products and help move industries forward. These roles come together in ways unique to each engagement to achieve common goals and meet the needs of our clients. There's little to no hierarchy within these groups as each individual contributes a unique skill set and perspective that is essential to the process.

