Hyperbiotics Makes $135,000 Product Donation to America’s ToothFairy.

(Charlotte, NC, September 10, 2019) America’s ToothFairy today expressed their gratitude to Hyperbiotics, a premium probiotic supplement manufacturer, for their recent product donation totaling more than $135,000 in value. The donation, which included their popular PRO-Kids and PRO-15 product lines, was distributed to nine members of the organization’s member clinics.

Through their Dental Resource Program (DRP), America’s ToothFairy provides benefits including donated dental products and equipment to 85 nonprofit dental clinics and programs serving more than 700,000 children nationwide. The program focuses on increasing access to care and preventive services to improve the oral health of children in underserved communities. Member clinics share America’s ToothFairy’s commitment to oral health education, prevention of pediatric dental disease, and addressing barriers to care.

“Our bodies are made up of good bacteria that keep us well. They live in the digestive tract, which begins in our mouth, and they’re currently under assault by traditional hygiene products, antibiotics, and our modern lifestyle choices,” Hyperbiotics Co-founder, Jamie Morea said. “We recognized that the children that America’s ToothFairy serves could benefit from our revolutionary chewable probiotic supplement meant to support oral and overall health.”

“We are grateful for every donation we receive, but Hyperbiotics has gone above and beyond our expectations—especially considering this is their first product donation to our organization,” America’s ToothFairy Executive Director, Jill Malmgren remarked. “Many of the families our member clinics serve struggle to pay for the most basic oral hygiene products, so this generous donation from Hyperbiotics will be especially beneficial to them.”
