

Are you an experienced medical writer looking for your next role in med comms?

We started with a vision. We've stuck to our four key principles: Fresh. Smart. Open. Real. And our strong foundations mean Synergy Vision continues to grow.

We are now looking for a driven, organised, intellectually curious and, above all, talented Principal Medical Writer to play a key role in developing and leading our team of writers and editors. The successful candidate will report to the Director of Medical Strategy, and will work closely with our Creative, Accounts and Events teams.

At SV, you'll have the opportunity and support to become the best at what you do. If you have a flexible and proactive attitude, with the ability to prioritise and work to tight deadlines while maintaining high quality, we'd love to help you develop your career.

London

Permanent, 4-day (36 hour) week with flexible working

Competitive, dependent upon experience

We want to know your vision.

Please submit your CV and a brief covering letter to:

careers@synergy-vision.com

Key responsibilities:

- Deliver medical and scientific writing of the highest quality across a range of media, and collaborate with internal teams and clients to execute projects that add value
- Manage and oversee direct reports, and support the Medical Writing team in the delivery of their objectives
- Promote scientific excellence in the Medical Writing team and across the wider organisation
- Develop a strong understanding of clients' objectives and provide scientific input across communication plans and materials
- Build and sustain successful client relationships; occasional travel for face-to-face meetings will be required
- Review and input strategically on all projects developed for both external and internal use
- Identify and act on new business opportunities, and develop proposals when necessary
- Provide input on resourcing and budgeting, in line with company pricing structure
- Support a respectful and professional working environment

You will have:

- At least 5 years' experience in medical communications
- A strong command of the English language, with a track record of delivering medical communications programmes across a broad range of therapy areas and deliverables
- Experience of leading multiple projects in parallel, and an ability to work calmly under pressure and prioritise workloads
- Experience of line management and developing direct reports

We offer:

- Competitive salary, 26 days holiday pro rata, flexible working, 4-day working week
- On-the-job training, with a personal training budget and a clear career ladder
- As one of the UK's BestWorkplaces®, we offer a positive and supportive working environment where you'll be able to reach your full potential
- Further benefits include: Perkbox employee rewards scheme, season ticket loan, duvet days, breakfast, birthday lie-in, option to purchase additional holiday, team days and social activities

SV has built a dynamic team culture that nurtures and invests in people like you.

Our people:

Take a fresh approach.

They're passionate about the potential for medical communications to transform healthcare, and are motivated to develop themselves as part of developing their careers. They see what's possible, and want to work in an environment where asking 'why?', 'what if?' and 'so what?' is just part of the process of delivering creative and innovative projects.

Work smart.

They can zero in on the details while keeping the big picture – delivering the difference – in mind. They use planning and organization in order to stay flexible for and open to change in a fast-paced agency environment. They're comfortable working collaboratively and independently – and can quickly spot which approach is needed for a given situation.

Stay open.

They build client relationships through excellent communication, interpersonal skills, full transparency and continually seeking new information and ideas. They're able to accept constructive feedback, and use it as a catalyst for growth. They want to achieve personal and professional satisfaction.

Are real.

They're cyclists and artists and home chefs and bookworms and dog-lovers. They're funny and kind and quiet and loud and a little bit different. They're people like you.

SV delivers the difference to you with benefits including:

- Competitive salary
- Pension
- 26 days holiday pro-rata
- Flexible working
- Breakfast
- 4-day work week
- Season ticket loan
- Duvet days
- Birthday lie-in
- Perkbox rewards scheme
- Option to purchase additional holiday
- Childcare vouchers
- Employee assistance programme

Staying true to our vision means we now have offices in London, Worthing, Dublin and Sydney – securing a strong future for our employees and clients alike. As we look towards what's next for medical communications and SV, we want to know:

What's your vision?
