

HOW TO DRAW-A-SAUR

It's a great shame we can't jump back in time and watch the dinosaurs – from a safe distance, of course. You'd have seen all shapes and sizes.

Try these features to make your own monster: frilly necks, spiky tails, horns, humps, sharp claws, and big jaws with an 'I'm going to eat you' smile. But none, it seems, had big, sticky-out ears. I wonder why?

YOU'LL NEED:

Your friends each with an A4 piece of paper, pencils, pens, felt-tips.

NOBODY IS SURE
WHAT COLOUR
DINOSAURS WERE.
THEY MAY HAVE BEEN LIKE TODAY'S REPTILES.

THEY MAY HAVE HAD FEATHERS.

1

Keep your drawings secret and let your imagination go.

2

Draw a dinosaur head. Fold the paper backwards leaving two small lines to show the next person where to continue drawing.

3

Pass it to the person on your left for them to draw a neck. Carry on like this and draw in this order: a head, a neck, a body and tail, legs, feet.

TOP TIP - TOP TIP

Often, dinosaurs are named after the place they are found in or the person who found them, so give yours a suitable name!

4

Then unfold to reveal the latest dinosaur discovery.
