

The Resilience Well

The degree of resilience at each level of the well is linked to the resilience at other levels.

Fortifying your well entails making sure that each layer can sustain and strengthen the layer above and below. Ignoring any interdependencies of the flow will affect the whole.

