STRAWBERRY RHUBARB COWPIE

OUR STORY

It all started with an empty space inside a gas station in Marengo, WI. Even though it was just a little corner of the building, it was enough to inspire the gas station owner, Jackson Kysar, to dream up a way to serve some good food. Ultimately, he imagined it becoming a family-friendly destination for locals and place that would be irresistible for the tourists and the passerby: The Burger Barn.

Over three years later, a lot has changed, but many of the staples have remained the same: strawberry lemonade, cheese curds, the famous cowpie, always sourced with local ingredients. Jackson still orders The Burger Barn cheese curds directly from the Ellsworth Cooperative Creamery, shipped directly off the line to the restaurant. All of the quality beef comes from Jolma Family Farms and is processed locally.

Still, when Jackson's dream outgrew the gas station, it was a tough choice to move to Ashland. A little like leaving the farm. Over one year later, though, we know moving was the right choice. Because instead of leaving the farm, we've had the incredible opportunity to bring it into town to share with all of our loyal guests here. We love serving our cheese curds, freshly made the day before, squeaking away and ready to be battered.

Yet, it's not enough to just order our food from local vendors; we have a relationship with the people and families who are working hard to grow and process our food. That's what it's really about, community. A community built around good food. We couldn't do it without the Jolma family or Ellsworth Cooperative Creamery, and we never could have made Jackson's dream possible without all of our loyal guests who appreciate the same wholesome food we do. You truly are the key ingredient.

PS. We never get tired of making The Burger Barn even better. Your feedback helps us develop and adapt. Also, we never want to lose sight of why Jackson created The Burger Barn: To create an incredible, family-friendly dining experience, using top quality, local ingredients. Let Jackson know if we're not hitting the mark or if you experienced something awesome! Reach out at: customerservice@jacksburgerbarn.com
