I hope the following information, pictures and advertisements will be helpful in familiarizing yourself with Kimball and all the amenities the town and county have available to citizens and guests. Since 1889, the town of Kimball has been a welcoming community. Kimball has emerged as a desirable destination to live, work, raise a family, retire and even start a business. Close proximity to the Colorado Front Range, Interstate 80, Wyoming rustic ski resorts and the Heartland Expressway make Kimball a prime location. Welcome to our amazing hometown, we invite you to consider Kimball as your hometown.

History

Kimball traces its history back to 1867 when the Union Pacific Railroad construction reached the site of the present-day town's location. The railroad established a station, calling it Antelope because of the large herds of antelope which roamed the area, and the tiny settlement of Antelopeville sprang up beside the station. For several years, the only activities in the vicinity consisted of railroad crews stopping for food and rest and the huge Bay State Livestock Company cattle operation. In 1877, the little town's first post office was established. In 1881, the first school was started through the efforts of Mary Lynch, wife of a section foreman for the railroad.

Because of confusion in 1885 with another town called Antelope, a change of name was suggested. The influence of the railroad can be attested to with the choice of "Kimball." A friend of the Lynch's, Thomas Lord Kimball, general manager on the U.P., would sidetrack his personal car and visit them when passing through town. When the area separated from Cheyenne County in 1888, the county also chose the name.

Wheat Growers Hotel

The Wheat Growers Hotel was constructed in 1918 by F. Cunningham and was considered the "most glamorous Hotel between Omaha and Denver". Dwight and Mami Eisenhower (with son Doug and Mami's parents) stayed at the Hotel in 1919. With 86 rooms, a restaurant and a Ballroom, the Hotel became the hub for railroad travelers and locals alike.

GOVERNMENT

In 1922, Kimball became a second-class city and elected a mayor. The City of Kimball is a city of the Second class operating with a Council-Administrator form of government. The Council is elected at large by the citizens, while the Board of Public Works, City Administrator, City Clerk, City Treasurer, and City Police Chief are appointed/hired by the Council. The City Council serves as the legislative body for the City of Kimball by making policy, passing ordinances and approving appropriations. The City Administrator is a hired professional manager of city government. The Administrator performs the executive function of administering the daily affairs of the City of Kimball. The City Clerk and Treasurer are also hired professionals qualified to maintain the records of the City of Kimball. The Board of Public Works (BPW) reviews budgets, incomes and expenses, rates and capital investments for equipment for the City Utility departments. However, the City Council does review and approve large capital purchases and debt service for the Utility departments.

Helpful City Ordinances

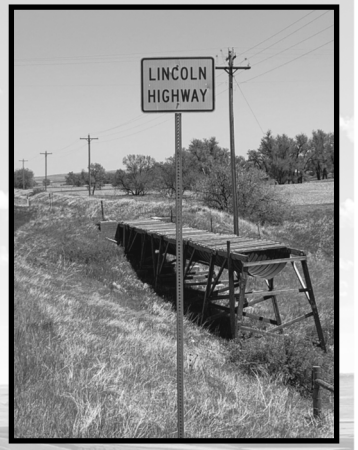
- Property shall have weeds, grasses or vegetation no higher than 6 inches of growth. 93.19
- Snow, ice, mud and or any other obstructions shall be removed from property owners sidewalks. 94.05
- Building permits are required to be filed with City Clerk for any building construction, repair, demolition or building relocation.
- Please prevent or clean up the following nuisances: dead or diseased trees, weeds, litter, stagnant water, noxious substances, trash, animal or human waste, recyclable items, abandoned vehicles, etc.

AGRICULTURE



The Homestead Act and Kincaid Act fostered the settlement of Kimball County in the early years of 1885-1910. Farming was the major source of revenue. It was also during this time that Kimball's first manufacturing plant began operations. Pat Maginnis, a blacksmith, patented an irrigation flume, a rough design to carry irrigation water across ravines. A "second frontier" started when oil was discovered in 1951. This brought hundreds of people to Kimball County. At one time 28 "producers" were operating within the city limits. Kimball County's oil production grew steadily throughout the 1950s and led the state for barrels produced in 1960. Kimball earned the title "Oil Capital of Nebraska".

Kimball Health Services

In 1944, the citizens of Kimball County voted on a bond issue for $90,000. Kimball Health Services began operation on August 21, 1950, at a cost of $223,000, financed with the bond issue, Hill-Burton funds and philanthropic resources. KHS has grown into a modern, efficient medical facility, serving patients and their families throughout western Nebraska, eastern Wyoming and northeastern Colorado.

Kimball Health Services Clinic opened its doors in September of 1996. It is a provider -based certified rural health clinic. In 2002, the clinic moved to its current location on the Kimball Health Services hospital campus. In 2017, a second rural health clinic was added in Pine Bluffs, Wyoming. The clinics are staffed with two physicians and multiple midlevel providers. All the clinic staff are employees of the hospital, which owns the clinic. The clinics provides family practice coverage to our communities. Both clinics offer extended hours (Saturdays included) in order to serve the working family needs of our community. Kimball Health Services offers the following services: cardiology, dermatology, emergency services, lab services, nursing services, radiology services, reconstructive plastic surgery, rehabilitation, specialty physician clinic, surgery, and swing bed care.

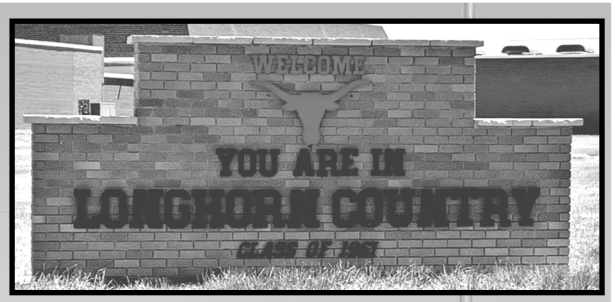
Education



Mary Lynch, wife of the railroad section foreman, cajoled the company and several section workers who boarded with her, to find a building, a teacher, and money to start a school for her children. Kimball County High School opened its doors on January 3, 1910. The influx of missile construction workers in Kimball and the surrounding area resulted in aid to Kimball schools under the Federal Act to Impacted Areas program. A new $1.2 million high school was built in 1963. Currently, Kimball Public Schools has about 425 students enrolled with a student/teach ratio of 9.25. Kimball Public Schools offers junior high and high school activities and sports. Such activities include: golf, volleyball, football, cross country, basketball, wrestling, track, spirit squad, band, choir, show choir, FFA, national honor society, one-act play, yearbook, quiz bowl, speech, student council, mock trial and Spanish club.

The Kimball Foundation was established as a non-profit organization in 1990 to award grants in the community. Projects supported include: Preschool literacy program, MOBI devices for kindergarteners, Stepping Stones, Auto Lift, Graphing Calculators, and an annual scholarship for a graduating senior. Kimball TeamMates is a one-to-one school based mentoring program. TeamMates matches students with members of the community.

Oliver Reservoir State Recreation Area

The Oliver Reservoir dam was built in 1911. The first irrigation waters flowed out of Oliver Reservoir in 1912, over flumes constructed by P. Maginnis factory. Oliver Reservoir provided irrigation water to Lodgepole Valley farmers until 1976, when the dam was deemed unsafe. The lake was drained because the irrigation district could not afford the cost to repair the dam. After a massive local fund raising effort, assistance from state funds and substantial volunteer work, the dam was rebuilt in 1979-1980 for use as a recreational, wildlife conservation and flood control facility.

The 280-acre lake offers a constant water level for boating, water skiing, fishing and swimming. Winter sports include ice fishing and ice-skating. Camping and picnicking facilities make this a total recreation area. 39 camping spots allow for guests to experience the ultimate camping experience. Oliver Reservoir is located eight miles west of Kimball on Highway 30. A State Park permit is not required, however, donations are accepted.

Four Winds Golf Course

Four Winds, at nearly 5,000 feet, is the highest golf course in Nebraska. The 18 hole championship course, with five sets of tees, plays from 4,800 yards to 6,900 yards. The original tree-less landscape now has over 5,500 trees located throughout the course. The Junior Golf Program provides an instruction and playing program available to children ages 4 to 18. This area is free to the public. Green Fees range from $18.99 for 9 holes or $26.38 for 18 holes. To book a tee time, please call (308) 235-4241.

Gotte Park

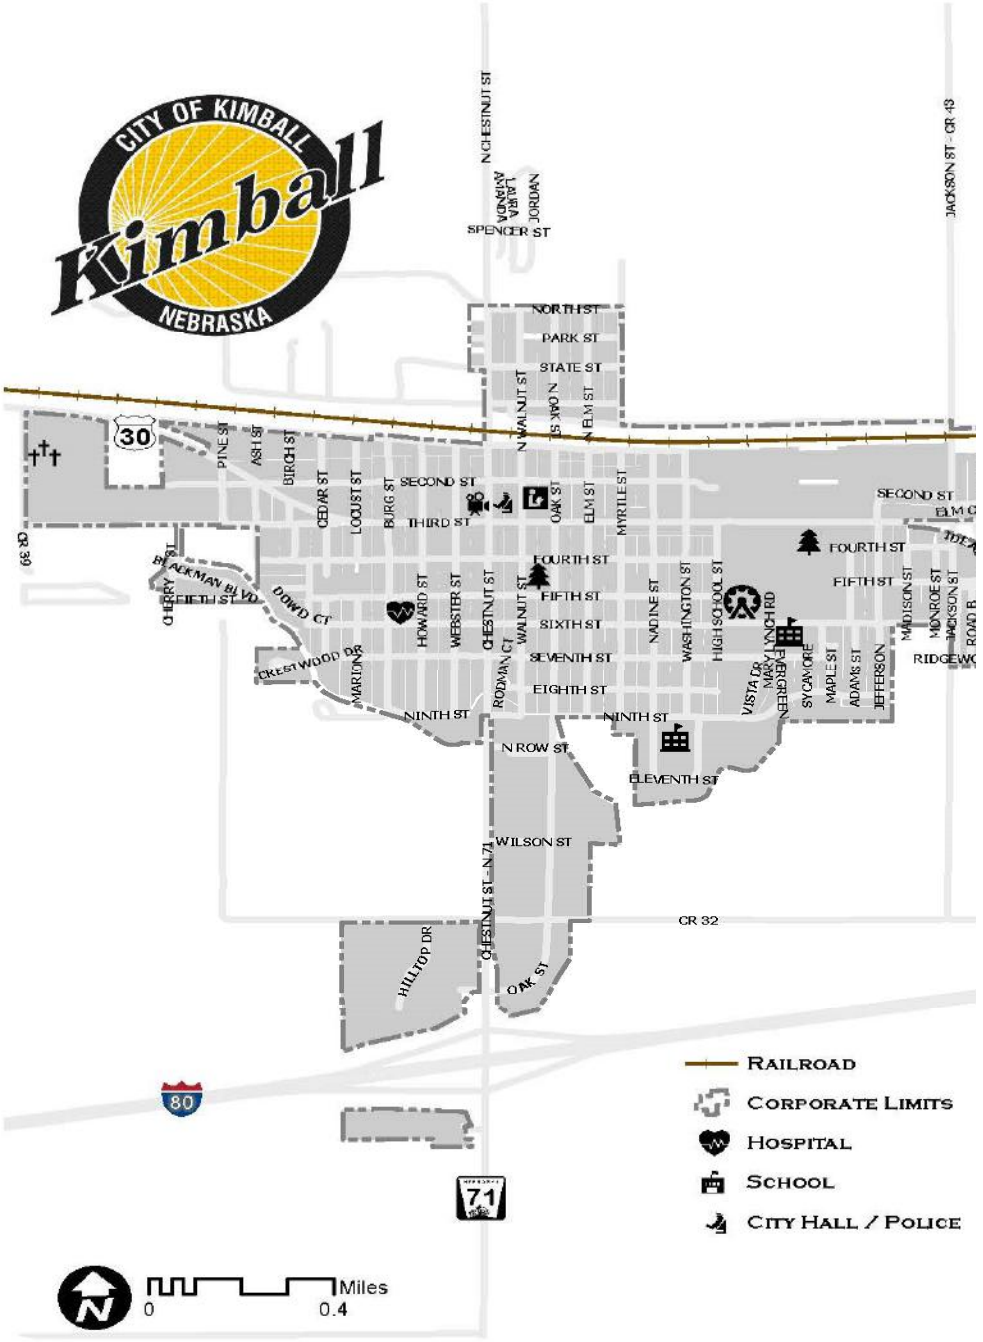
During the Cold War, Kimball became the geographical center of 200 "Minute Man" Missile Sites thus proclaiming Kimball as "Missile Center-USA" A long-retired Titan missile stands in the middle of Gotte Park, a tribute to our nation's armed forces and the missile boom that spurred local economies throughout much of the middle twentieth century.

PANORAMA POINT AND THREE-STATE CORNER MARKER

Panorama Point, the highest point in Nebraska, stands 5,424 feet above sea level. Just a short distance from Panorama Point is the Three-State Marker, which designates where Nebraska, Colorado, and Wyoming meet.

Plains Historical Museum

The Plains Historical Museum offers displays depicting the early days of Kimball. The museum, open during the summer, is operated by the Plains Historical Society. The Museum is located at 202 S Chestnut in Downtown Kimball.



CELEBRATIONS

July 4th Celebration

A local celebration with games, free watermelon, and contests. Complete the evening out with a free fireworks show.

Kimball-Banner County Fair

Begins the 2nd week of August and includes 4-H and FFA Exhibits, livestock shows, rodeos, entertainment, rides, and food trucks.

Farmers Day

In 1923 in sympathy with the farmers who lost most of their wheat crop, the town sponsored a free lunch. The hotels and cafes served 960 dinners. This was the first "Farmers Day" which has now become an annual celebration in September with a parade, live music, craft show, family games, demolition derby and a lunch.

TRANSPORTATION

Transportation has been an important feature in Kimball's development. The Union Pacific Railroad provided passenger service to bring in early settlers, and freight service for shipping out the country's produce and manufactured goods. The Lincoln Highway was long considered to be the "main street" of the United States and is still the main street of Western Nebraska. A highway was built connecting Kimball with Gering and Scottsbluff to the north. It is now a heavily travelled route linking Colorado with western Nebraska and the Dakotas. Air travel came to Kimball, with the first airport being built north of town. The airport was later moved to its present location two miles south of Kimball on Highway 71. It was expanded in 1987 with the construction of a new, longer runway to handle larger aircraft. A private aviation company provides a fixed base operation including a terminal building, fuel maintenance, repair and storage. Aerial applications, flight instruction, aircraft chartering service and rentals are available.

KIMBALL COUNTY TRANSIT BUS

The Kimball County Transit Bus offers citizens both city and rural a way to get to get to and from various locations in the City of Kimball, the Panhandle as well as Cheyenne, Wyoming and the following locations in Colorado: Loveland, Fort Collins and Denver. The Transit Bus also offers rides to North Platte. Fares are flat rates and extremely reasonable. Kimball County Transit offers six wheelchair accessible vehicles, as well as ramp or lift options. Please schedule your transit services as soon as possible by calling (308) 235-0262.
