ShapeShift One Year Anniversary – Insight From Jon ShapeShift

One year ago today, ShapeShift announced that it would be the first company to fully decentralize all corporate structure while at the same time issuing the largest airdrop in history to help empower our new DAO. ShapeShift promised to start open sourcing all of its code over the following months. Checking in on how the DAO is doing one year later now, we can see that there has been an incredible amount of progress on this front.

Renew Moderation Workstream July - End of Dec 2022

The Community Moderation Workstream is primarily responsible for supporting the community and maintaining the integrity of various ShapeShift platforms such as Discord, The Forum, Boardroom and Notion. Future platforms that the community chooses to implement may also be included. This workstream is used daily to ensure the smooth operation of the ShapeShift DAO and this proposal's passing allows that to continue.

ENGINEERING BOUNTIES

Shadowy Super Coders Wanted

The DAO is seeking talented engineers to join an engaged community of builders. This is a unique opportunity to build the next generation of crypto tools for customer financial sovereignty. ShapeShift One Year Anniversary – Insight From Jon ShapeShift

So much has been accomplished in such a short time on the path toward the full decentralization of ShapeShift DAO. In fact, I would assert the ShapeShift DAO is already one of the more decentralized organizations in all of crypto—the power is in the hands of the community and token holders across governance decision-making, and anyone can join at any time to get involved and let their voice be heard in the DAO's Discord or Forum. It has been inspiring to watch the community form and take up the ShapeShift DAO mission, each in their own way.

One thing to watch is how fast the DAO has been evolving as an organization. In traditional centralized orgs, especially as they grow to any significant size, bureaucratic inertia develops, challenging organizational evolution. This is why changes tend to be slow and plodding in most traditional orgs; by contrast, the ShapeShift DAO has transformed organically and rapidly over the course of a single year. This includes experiments around how work gets done, either via the core workstreams the DAO funds, bounties of various types, and all sorts of community contributions across the board. The evolution of the DAO also includes innovating on new products and services, like FOXy and FOXChain, as well as assigning leadership (and subsequent changes to that leadership) across the DAO's workstreams as needed. The debate around what the DAO's purpose and goals should be is ever evolving with the community and as market opportunities shift.

Renew Moderation Workstream July - End of Dec 2022

Moderation supports all workstreams and all users within each of the platforms it moderates. As they bring more members into the various platforms, moderators act much more than bot managers and spam blockers. Not only do moderators set up the verification process, but they are also the point of contact for members having issues with the verification process—they function as the greeters of the DAO.

The mission of this workstream is simple: to help people. Moderation is the workstream you never knew you needed but couldn't live without. From welcoming new users to setting up Zoom calls to managing bots; moderation is here to support the community. This workstream strives to create a space that fosters security, growth and innovation. Our team of trustworthy, confident and enthusiastic moderators allows for decentralization of community moderation.
