

Latitude Horizon Fund

THE OBJECTIVE OF THE LATITUDE HORIZON FUND IS TO DELIVER CAPITAL APPRECIATION OVER THE LONG TERM BY HOLDING A CONCENTRATED PORTFOLIO OF STOCKS, WHILST LOWERING THE EQUITY RISK AND ENHANCING RETURN THROUGH A SELECTION OF NON-EQUITY INVESTMENTS.

January Commentary

No matter the human endeavour, total effort will always win people's hearts.

After an unendearing opening to the Brexit process, Theresa May's fortitude has recently been absolute, and sentiment surrounding her premiership has traced a rapid arc from despair to hope. We've learnt to expect as much in a world of continuous news cycles and echo chambers where narratives triumph over facts, suffocating them into silence.

The facts of Brexit remain elusive, but the same. The real impasse has been caused by a lack of unity in the Conservative party, with both sides putting ideology ahead of action for too long. This is changing, and the rhetoric from Jacob, Boris and the ERG all points towards party unity as a priority, and deal making commensurate with that.

Keeping "no deal" alive by denying the recent amendments in parliament strengthened the Prime Minister's hand as she approaches the EU one last time. Surely they will find a workable concession on the backstop which will trigger a flood of support from across the party, finally exposing Jeremy Corbyn's position of inaction and opacity which, despite being politically rational, has been far from edifying.

Is this too much to hope? Perhaps, and while we're optimistic personally, we remain professionally cautious.

Within our portfolio, we continue to maintain a large currency hedge which has reduced our non-sterling currency exposure close to zero. This is not a bold call on a positive Brexit outcome. This is a pragmatic way to reduce the impact of a highly uncertain and highly concentrated risk within the portfolio: that of the outcome of the Brexit decision. A sharp 10% move in Sterling either way, if we were unhedged, would result in a +/-5% move in our net asset value, something we always strive to avoid.

Stocks within our fund will continue to generate longer term returns and we look forward to our out of favour UK stocks likely drawing attention once the grey skies of Brexit have cleared.

Latitude Horizon Fund

Strategy's Previous Track Record¹ - This is a composite of Freddie Lait's performance in long-only global absolute return portfolios principally the Odey Atlas Fund ("Atlas") he managed from 19 October 2012 to 31 October 2016 during his time at Odey Asset Management LLP ("Odey") and Latitude Horizon Fund performance data since launch 1 November 2016. The information above and below is for information purposes, only the Latitude Horizon Fund is being offered for investment. Performance above is for the I share class, net of fees and other charges. Past performance does not guarantee future results and the value of all investments and the income derived therefrom can decrease as well as increase. Investments that have an exposure to currencies other than the base currency of the strategy may be subject to exchange rate fluctuations. The data above and below reflects the reinvestment of all interest and dividends received. The new Latitude Horizon Fund is a long only UCITS fund managed with similar investment guidelines, using the same investment process and subject to similar fees and charges. For full details always refer to the prospectus. While every effort will be made to manage the Latitude Horizon Fund in the same manner there is no guarantee that there will be similar performance. Note that Atlas Fund changed from a long only UCITS fund to a long-short UCITS fund on 23 April 2014. In order to show a consistent long term track record for Freddie Lait which is a more accurate representation of how the Latitude Horizon Fund will be managed, the performance of Atlas in the chart above from 23 April 2014 to 31st October 2016 is a carve-out of his actual long only portfolio over this period, which includes his long only equity and non-equity positions, rebased to cancel out any effects from leverage. Further details on the carve-out are available upon request.
