October Commentary

This month Latitude celebrates its third birthday.

Starting up a new fund management business is challenging, and would have been impossible without the support we have received to date. We know that investing with young businesses is also challenging, and we hugely appreciate those clients who have already invested, and those who are seriously considering doing so in the future. Thank you, we most certainly wouldn't be here without you.

Our firmwide assets are up substantially from launch, at c.£180m at the time of writing, and we expect to pass through £200m soon. Our team is strong and growing and, with three years under our belt, we hope we now offer a credible alternative to more established funds in the market.

There is a point in a firm's lifecycle where being small becomes an advantage, and we believe we have reached that milestone. Candidly we have taken the best of what we have learnt over our careers to date, and improved and innovated where we saw it possible to improve upon the status quo.

Our investment process remains the same as it was at launch, focussing on long-term single stock investments while diversifying risk and increasing returns through an optimal mix of tactical positions in bonds, inflation linked securities, commodities, currencies and cash.

Performance since launch has been solid, as returns from equity market beta, substantial single stock alpha, as well as our non-equity positions (gold, currencies and inflation linked bonds) have all contributed to a strong risk adjusted outcome.

We believe the fund is well positioned today to weather the storms of uncertainty which continue to gather overhead, and also to make money for our clients during interludes of opportunity.

As we stated on our website at launch, the overarching goal at Latitude is, and will continue to be the same, and we look forward to working with many of you over the years to come:

Latitude Horizon Fund

Strategy's Previous Track Record¹ - This is a composite of Freddie Lait's performance in long-only global absolute return portfolios principally the Odey Atlas Fund ("Atlas") he managed from 19 October 2012 to 31 October 2016 during his time at Odey Asset Management LLP ("Odey") and Latitude Horizon Fund performance data since launch 1 November 2016. The information above and below is for information purposes, only the Latitude Horizon Fund is being offered for investment. Performance above is for the Atlas Fund I share class, net of fees and other charges. Past performance does not guarantee future results and the value of all investments and the income derived therefrom can decrease as well as increase. Investments that have an exposure to currencies other than the base currency of the strategy may be subject to exchange rate fluctuations. The data above and below reflects the reinvestment of all interest and dividends received. The Latitude Horizon Fund is a long only UCITS fund managed with similar investment guidelines, using the same investment process and subject to similar fees and charges. For full details always refer to the prospectus. While every effort will be made to manage the Latitude Horizon Fund in the same manner there is no guarantee that there will be similar performance. Note that Atlas Fund changed from a long only UCITS fund to a long-short UCITS fund on 23 April 2014. In order to show a consistent long term track record for Freddie Lait which is a more accurate representation of how the Latitude Horizon Fund will be managed, the performance of Atlas in the chart above from 23 April 2014 to 31st October 2016 is a carve-out of his actual long only portfolio over this period, which includes his long only equity and non-equity positions, rebased to cancel out any effects from leverage. Further details on the carve-out are available upon request.
