hello

Elin is a self made wedding photographer and digital designer student. You might find yourself running into her sometimes, because she's always involved in a creative project, whether it's via the non profit organisation that she does photography and marketing for, or via the extracurricular project she's taken on or at a wedding where she might be the photographer. Either way you won't find that she's there with the main goal of making a profit. She's most likely there because she just really wants to be there.
