In 2020, ATC Military Prep School merged with NZSE.

ATC was established in 1991 in Kaikohe, Northland to deliver free military-oriented programmes for youth between 16-19 years old. The programme was so successful and so widely regarded by the community that it expanded by opening campuses in Auckland and the Waikato.

Focused on empowering our mātātahi with discipline, knowledge and the soft skills to succeed, the programme builds student confidence and allows them to become career-successful role models within their communities.

Our programmes provide an exciting, safe and supportive learning environment and are designed to provide students with recognised qualifications and clear pathways to the New Zealand Defence Forces, Police and other services, along with other sectors of employment, or higher level study.

Each year new students flourish in the atmosphere of a military-styled education system, achieving academic, physical, and vocational heights they never thought possible.
