A document processing solution
crafted for customs brokers

How much are repetitive data entry activities costing your business?

As your organization is growing, the natural option is simply to increase the size of your data entry team to process larger volumes. The nature of your business is to process time-sensitive customs documents as quickly and accurately as humanly possible.

Today's customs clearance professional is an experienced knowledge worker that needs to be well trained to be effective at their job.

Unfortunately, these teams are spending 50-75% of their time simply data entering what is on the provided documents and much less time leveraging the training and experience that will deliver the most value.

Current processes do not support a flexible work environment such as:

Work from Home

Work Remotely

Outsource Work

What if you could introduce a digital workforce to automate the repetitive tasks?

Windmill has designed and implemented a leading customs clearance solution that offers deep automation to the manual repetitive tasks required to clear shipments.

It can be deployed in either a cloud or as an on-premise solution. EasyClearance can be interfaced with different customs solutions like Descartes and CargoWise, or to your own in-house application.

With Windmill EasyClearance, processing multi-line, multi-page, and multi-currency commercial invoices become easier and faster as invoice line data is extracted by the software solution and ingested into your backend brokerage solution.

“ If we had to process this document manually, it would have taken us 2 hours, with EasyClearance it was only 5 minutes

- Large International Customs Broker
