Cookie policy

Elicera AB (publ)'s ("Elicera") website (the "Website") uses cookies to enable the Website to function properly. Such cookies are normally provided by Elicera, but may also be provided from or to Elicera's partners and/or third party content providers (including, but not limited to, advertising agencies and/or companies providing statistical services).

Cookies are small text files stored on your computer's (or, for the purpose of this cookie policy, the device which enables you to access Elicera's Website) browser directory or program data subfolders by the website you visit. You need to agree to cookies being stored on your computer to be able to use the Website in the way that Elicera has intended. Cookies are used to help the web browser handle unique visitors, functions and statistic systems related to the Website and provide you as a visitor with access to various functions and the full user experience on the Website. If you do not agree to Elicera's use of cookies, the Website will normally work but the user experience will be adversely affected. Elicera will not save any cookies on your computer without your consent. If you do not want cookies to be stored on your computer, or, if you want to withdraw your consent to the use of cookies, you can amend your browser settings accordingly.

There are two types of cookies; persistent and session cookies. Persistent cookies are stored on a user's computer and remain on the computer's hard drive for a longer period of time. Session cookies are temporary cookies that are automatically erased when the web browser is closed which means that temporary cookies are not stored permanently on your computer.

Elicera reserves the right to change both this cookie policy and Elicera's use of cookies (including such cookies that are provided by third parties) with or without notice. If such changes are made by Elicera, you may be required to agree and consent to such use and storage again.
