ABOUT THE PRODUCER

Maison Robert Olivier was created by the renowned Alsace producer Jean Biecher, currently managed by Olivier Biecher, as an homage to his father Robert. Maison Robert Olivier is cooperation between biodynamic wine growers and small scale producers within and outside the Alsace area. The entire range of Maison Robert Olivier is so called "Vin Nature" – Natural Wine. The phenomenon is ancient, but has regain popularity in recent years. The basic idea is to alter the wine as little as ever possible, therefore the grapes are 100% organic (certified Biodynamic by Demeter), and no or very limited sulfites have been added in the winemaking process.

VINEYARDS

Alsace, on the border between France and Germany, unites the best of both worlds in its wines. Simply stated, Alsace makes "French wine made with German varietals", as they combine the aromas of the German varietals with the higher alcohol level and more body with is traditionally found in French wines. Despite its northern situation, Alsace is rather warm and dry, thanks to the protective mountains, Les Voges, that take most of the rainfall coming from the west.

Maison Robert Olivier Blanc comes from the hills of the northern part of Alsace, close to Efig (Bernardvillé and Itterswiller).

VINIFICATION

Careful winemaking with the minimum intervention possible, fermented with natural yeast and a minimum of sulfites. The wine is aged in stainless steel before bottling, to keep the natural freshness of the wine.
