CWBA CENTRES FOR PERFORMANCE

The Canadian Wheelchair Basketball Association is pleased to announce the launch of the CWBA Centres for Performance for 2006-2007. The CWBA Centre for/de Performance is a unified, nation-wide Athlete Identification and Athlete Development Program. It is intended to identify potential elite-level development athletes in Canada (men and women) and to then give these athletes the opportunity to be coached and trained in the sport of Wheelchair Basketball under a standardized Centre for Performance curriculum. This teaching curriculum is aligned with our National Team programs (men and women) and is designed to best prepare our future National Team Athletes in all aspects of Elite Development. The Centres will provide on and off-court instruction by national level and selected regional coaches in the area of wheelchair basketball skill development as well as providing an introduction to sport science and training techniques offered by experts from the National Sport Centres.

Athlete Identification Sessions are currently taking place around BC. Identified Athletes will then be invited to become a Centre for Performance Participant in their respective Region in Canada. Once selected as a Centre for Performance participant, athletes will be brought together for Centre for Performance training weekends 3- 4 times throughout the year. For more information on the Centre for Performance Program, please contact CWBA or BCWBS directly as follows:

RYAN ROMAS – BCWBS ATHLETE AND RICK HANSEN FOUNDATION AMBASSADOR

Many of you may know Ryan Romas as a new face on the basketball court here in BC. Ryan started playing wheelchair basketball a few years ago and has taken his interest in the sport to a new level by participating in the BCWBS city league. “Wheelchair basketball has given me the ability to play sports competitively after my accident. Wheelchair basketball focuses on your ‘ability’ rather than your ‘disability’ and offers peer support from other people with disabilities,” says Ryan.

What you may not know is that Ryan is also a Rick Hansen Foundation Ambassador. Rick Hansen Foundation Ambassadors are people with spinal cord injury (SCI) and related disabilities who volunteer in communities across Canada sharing their stories of inspiration and courage. Each one of these remarkable individuals illustrates that it is possible to overcome major life challenges through hard work and passionate determination. “Rick Hansen proved to me that being in a wheelchair does not have to limit what you can do. Talking to other people about my accident gives them insight into the life of someone with a disability. Raising funds for spinal cord research gives me hope for a better quality of life and hope for other people with disabilities in the future,” adds Ryan. Rick Hansen Foundation Ambassadors share their stories with media, community and corporate groups to put a face on spinal cord injury and raise awareness about the potential of people with disabilities. Audiences learn about the courage it takes to move on after an injury and of some of the daily challenges people face in a wheelchair. They learn that the hopes and dreams of a person with SCI are very similar to their own.

To learn more about the ambassador program call 1 800 213 2131 or email ambassador@rickhansen.com.

CANADA GAMES UPDATE

WHITEHORSE
2 0 0 7

—JEUX DU—CANADA
—GAMES—

For the first time ever, the Canada Winter Games (CWG) will be held in Canada's North. In marking the 40th anniversary of this prestigious Canadian sporting event, Canada's three Territories have joined forces to showcase the largest event of its kind ever to be held north of the 60th parallel. Set in Whitehorse, Yukon, the 2007 Canada Winter Games (February 24 to March 10, 2007) will celebrate the athletic experience and determination of Canada's finest amateur athletes while showcasing the frontier spirit, cultures and traditions of the people in the North.

The Team BC program is more than BC's best; it's also about building excellence. It's about preparing Olympians and Paralympians because the road to becoming an Olympian or Paralympian travels through Team BC and the Canada Games. Team BC represents the best athletes, BC's collective sport system and the contribution to healthy, active lifestyles. And above all, Team BC is about getting to know other Canadians from a lifetime of memories for participants in Canada's greatest celebration of sport and culture.

Team BC will bring a dedicated team of 266 athletes, 61 coaches, 4 National Artists and 21 mission staff to the Games. The Games will bring together approximately 3,600 athletes, coaches, managers and officials with participation from every province and territory in Canada. For more info about Team BC: www.teambc.org.

Wheelchair Basketball has been included in the CWG since 1995, and Team BC has been on the podium at every Games. The BC team for 2007 coached by Marni Abbott-Peter and Pat Harris is another talented group of young athletes with the potential to carry on this tradition. The pool of athletes has been reduced to 15 with final selections for the 2007 CWG to be made at the end of October. With the generous support of the BC Lotteries Sportsfunder initiative wheelchair basketball has more access to sport science expertise, more training camp and competition opportunities, and assistance for essential equipment upgrades.

BCWBS is hosting Alberta and Manitoba in a CWG warm-up tournament on October 28/29th at Douglas College in New Westminster. We invite Team BC supporters to come out and root for our BC athletes. More information on the tournament and a full schedule will be available at www.bcwbs.ca.

MID-ISLAND WHEELCHAIR SPORTS CLUB INTRODUCES JUNIOR WHEELCHAIR BASKETBALL PROGRAM IN NANAIMO

freeze@telus.net

Wheelchair Basketball is coming to Nanaimo thanks to new funding, equipment and enthusiasm. The interest for this program all starting with wheelchair basketball being part of the BC Disability Games held in Nanaimo where a number of junior participants took part. Currently underway is a weekly junior program being held Thursday nights at Coal Tyee elementary from 7 – 8:30pm which started Sept 28th and will run for nine weeks before Christmas and 7 weeks in the New Year.

The Mid-Island Wheelchair Sport Club recently held a sponsorship recognition function at Coal Tyee school to highlight several recent acts of benevolence. Through the generous support of the Nanaimo BC Disability Games Legacy Fund, Ronald McDonald House Charities, the Rick Hansen Foundation, Province of BC, BC Rehab Foundation, the Vancouver Sun Children's Charity, Medichair Nanaimo and Sunrise Medical, 12 new sport wheelchairs were purchased for the new program. For all these groups' interest and support for wheelchair basketball program development, we are truly grateful.

CANADA'S MAN IN MOTION RETURNS TO ST. JOHN'S 20 YEARS LATER

Wheels are turning for the Canadian homecoming 20th anniversary celebration of Rick Hansen's Man in Motion World Tour

The Rick Hansen Foundation kicked off the 20th anniversary Canadian homecoming celebration of Rick Hansen's Man In Motion World Tour. Rick and original team members Amanda Hansen, Mike Reid, Nancy Thompson and Simon Cumming reunited August 24th at Cape Spear.

The return to Newfoundland and Labrador is one of the memories from the tour that's close to Rick's heart. Twenty years ago, his homecoming to Canada served as a significant turning point for the Man In Motion World Tour. The welcome and support felt in St. John's initiated the momentum that magnified as they moved west across Canada.

In 1985, Rick Hansen pushed his wheelchair out of Vancouver, BC and set out on a journey that would make history. His legendary Man In Motion World Tour spanned more than 40,000 km through 34 countries; took over two years to complete; and raised more than $26 million for spinal cord injury.

BCWBS OFFICIALS CLINIC

October 27 & 28, 2006

BCWBS is hosting a Wheelchair Basketball Officials Clinic to provide training and mentoring opportunities for officials from around the province of BC. This clinic is being held in conjunction with a Canada Games level tournament, the BCWBS Fall Classic. The clinic will give officials the opportunity to learn the "three man" system that is used in Canada Games, and international wheelchair basketball competitions.

Internationally, certified referees Dean McKinnon and Gilles Briere will offer training and evaluation for officials at various levels in their development. BCWBS is taking this opportunity to educate, recruit and promote wheelchair basketball within the able bodied officiating community, with the goal of attracting some new officials. The clinic will also assist in identifying some of our existing officials for access to more advanced opportunities.

The clinic will take place at Douglas College in New Westminster October 27 & 28th, 2006. It will consist of a three hour classroom session on Friday night in Room 1231 commencing at 7pm. Saturday will include game assignments, evaluation and feedback from 9am to 4pm. The fee for this clinic is $20 CDN. This clinic is open to officials from across Canada, and BCWBS is suggesting that this will be a great 'tune up' for officials preparing for the Canada Winter Games in 2007. For registration information please contact marni@bcwbs.ca.

Hansen's incredible achievement became a testament to the strength of the human spirit and the power of teamwork. His courage and determination inspired Canadians to believe in the possibility of a fully accessible and inclusive society, and a cure for spinal cord injury.

Join other Canadians who have been touched by Rick's dream. Share your story at www.rickhansen.com.

The Rick Hansen Foundation's mission is to improve the quality of life of people with spinal cord injury. Since Rick Hansen's epic Man In Motion World Tour (1985-87), the Foundation has made an impact of over $178 million in support of people with spinal cord injury, including: the establishment of the International Collaboration on Repair Discoveries (ICORD), the largest spinal cord research centre in the world, and investing in over 470 quality of life projects in communities across Canada through Rick Hansen Wheels In Motion, presented by Scotiabank.

COACHES CORNER

GAME ON...GAME OFF

by Bruce Pinel, Mental Skills Trainer / Sport Psychologist, PacificSport

Competing at the highest levels in sport requires a tremendous amount of time and energy each day dedicated to the pursuit of excellence. However, having 'sport' on your brain 24/7 is not healthy and may actually negatively impact your sport performance. Interestingly, often one of the best things you can do to improve your performance is to actually get away from your sport and take 'breaks' during the day; not just physical breaks, but mental breaks as well so that you come back refreshed and ready to go! If you find that during your physical breaks (i.e. between training sessions, competitive events) you continue to process and think about your sport, you are not providing the mind and body the appropriate rest time needed to regenerate and recuperate the energy levels (both physical and mental) required to perform at your best when required. This is when it is important to develop the ability to 'switch off/on' from your sport using the skills of Symbolic Release and Symbolic Capture.

Symbolic Release = a physical action or gesture that represents your commitment to 'switching off' your sport-brain and 'switching on' your other-life-interests-brain. Examples of the 'switch' are:

- closing your locker containing your sport-related gear
- zipping up your gear-bag
- putting on your regular clothes
- your first step out of the sport complex
- putting away your training / competition journal after you have made your entry

Symbolic Capture = a physical action or gesture that represents your commitment to 'switching on' your sport-brain and 'switching off' your other-life-interests-brain. Examples of the "switch" are:

- packing your gear bag
- getting into your car to go to training
- your first step into the sport complex
- putting on your training gear
- touching a team logo before training

By developing skills to 'switch on and off' between sport and other life interests you are better able to:

- maximize your training/competition by not 'bringing' external concerns and issues onto the field of play with you
- maximize your time outside of sport by not 'bringing' sport concerns and issues into other life interests.

Consistent with the above message, it is very important for performance athletes to have goals in other areas of life beyond sport (school, career, family, relationships, hobbies, etc.) and to have appropriate outlets to pursue these interests. PacificSport Athlete/Coach Services (ACS) have resources and personnel available to assist you in this pursuit, which will ultimately contribute to maximizing your sport performance. For more information and other great Performance Points please check out: www.pacificsport.com

REGIONAL COACH UPDATES

Greater Vancouver – Mike Prescott

The Vancouver Region is a buzz of activity for basketball players at all levels. The summer session at GF Strong proved to be a breeding ground of new talent like Nancy Lafleche, Kevin Guertsen, Star Trickey, Chad Palmer and Tanya Hodzic just to name a few. Developmental nights in North Vancouver, Surrey, Abbotsford and Steveston just kicked off and the City League at Douglas is in full swing. Veteran leadership from Sunny Samarakoon, John Lundie and Joe Higgins is helping to cultivate the next pool of superstar athletes in the province of British Columbia. The new Centres of Performance program got off on the right foot with an identification camp at McNair Secondary School in Richmond. This is yet another opportunity to enhance the level of play in this province and provide athletes with the coaching they need to be all they can be.

Okanagan – Joe Higgins

The Okanagan Region is getting underway with programming for the season. Coach Joe Higgins travelled to Kelowna to meet with the local players, share his ideas and hear about their goals on wheelchair basketball in the Okanagan. We would love to hear from other people in the area on their thoughts and ideas as to how we can grow the sport in the region – ie city league games or skill development camps. Junior development is another initiative we would like to look at in the Okanagan and we would love to see some juniors at the Junior Challenge in Richmond in November. If you would like a wheelchair basketball session in your community please let us know. Lastly, we are looking forward to another great season for the Okanagan Thunder as well. Good luck!

Northern BC – Pat Harris and Elisha Williams

The wheelchair basketball season is up and running in Prince George. The group recently completed a demonstration at the Family YMCA and with PacificSport Northern BC. Some players also participated in track sessions at Masich Place Stadium twice a week throughout the summer. Programming is underway with a junior mini-hoops, recreational, and competitive session each week and plans for a developmental camp Oct 13/14 for Northern BC. Regional coaches Elisha and Pat will also be communicating with other regions such as McBride, Quesnel and Dawson Creek assessing interest for possible development of wheelchair basketball. The Titans will once again be returning to Division 1 of the BC-CWBL and looks forward to another season on the court.
