

Impervia Flooring the Sustainable Safe and Healthy Choice

Waterproof, Fireproof and Formaldehyde Free Flooring.

With our forests ever decreasing and precious resources being used for an increasing market in wood flooring, we have an alternative that uses less of our natural forests.

Impervia Luxury Flooring is extruded from natural element's and stone. The decorative layer is made from high quality photographic paper and our acoustic backing is VOC free with no cryogenic emissions or formaldehyde.

The finish has a ceramic quality for high traffic areas.

The IPXE backing has an acoustic property of 21 db.

The total thickness is 6.5mm and it requires no adhesive or other accessories or material to fit.

If you click the image to the left you can see the production line where the centre core, decorative layer and top protective layer as all fused together to create the best luxury flooring available.

This is the perfect "Retrofit" product being only 6.5mm thick with just a perfect flat subfloor needed. The subfloor can be concrete, old tiles (as long as they are secure) old wood flooring (as long as it is perfectly flat with no nails or screws protruding. Plywood, chipboard in fact any subfloor except carpet.

Individual planks are easy to replace so reduces waste and as it is Waterproof and Fireproof it can go anywhere within an office, home, pub, club in fact anywhere indoors.

The rigid planks and finish make it look like real wood flooring and you can see the manufacture on the Impervia Web site here:
