

Intelligence Briefs

Technology-driven solutions that harness the power of open-source information for actionable intelligence

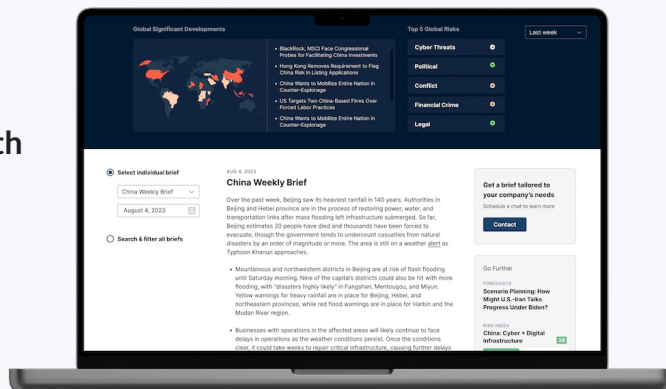

Take control of market intelligence for more proactive risk preparation

Machine learning technology combined with trained analyst curation

Address information overload and separate the signal from the noise to drive better decisions

Stay ahead of emerging risks with smart curation of verified risk news and OSINT

- RANE taps information from a wide range of trusted sources as well as intelligence from our global network of risk experts.
- Proprietary technology filters results by topics, locations, companies, people, and keywords, and trained risk specialists select the most important items for your brief.
- Intelligence is databased in our online platform and delivered via a mobile app or email.
- Briefs cover a range of risk topics and clients can configure the experience to monitor threats of interest to their organization.

Optional Enhancements Include:

- Top note analysis of key developments and trends with relevant implications for your company.
- Integration with RANE's Core Intelligence, with risk analysis, rich media programming, and access to RANE's Risk Tracker to diagnose and monitor systemic risks over time.

Smart curation ensures our clients don't miss anything important, resulting in better situational awareness on emerging issues and improving their ability to quickly adapt and respond to fast-moving events.

Benefits of working with RANE:

- Save time and effort with a more efficient process for information screening
- Zero in on issues most relevant to you and your company
