HOW MANY CONSUMERS LISTEN TO RADIO THESE DAYS?

Radio is listened to by 92% of U.S. population each week and has a strong Return on Investment (R.O.I.), $6 for every $1 spent. Adults aged 18-49 that tune into radio over a week, 96% have a college degree and an annual income of $50,000+. There are 80 million American Baby Boomers, those born between 1946 and 1964, who make up a big part of the daily radio audience, and they account for roughly half of all packaged-good sales, almost $230 billion per year.

Recent research by Neilson, suggests that upping a campaign's Ad frequency by adding radio's big reach helps brands get inside consumers' heads so when they see the TV or digital Ad, it adds credibility to the brand. This is known as multi-source validation, a relatively new term that is gaining traction in advertising circles. "The idea is that hearing the message and seeing the message from different sources creates greater validity, awareness, and recall in the mind of the consumer," says Brad Kelly, managing director of Nielsen Audio. The study shows that advertising on radio drives a twenty-nine percent incremental lift in brand online search results. This proves that radio significantly impacts digital behaviors and activities—and is even more relevant in a digital and e-commerce world."

Further proof of radio's ability to drive online search activity came in a 2017 RAB-Commissioned study from Sequent Partners and Media Monitors that showed advertising on radio drove a 29% incremental lift in brand online search results.
