

Transport Hail Help from Award Winning Company

People who find themselves without transport following the unprecedented hail storm on the Coffs Coast last week can find help through The Community Transport Company.

The award-winning not-for-profit business is offering temporary subsidised transport through the Community Transport Program for people who have lost their usual means of transport.

The Community Transport Company knows the extent of the impact of the recent hail storm on the Coffs Coast with its office being located in the epicentre of the storm in Toormina.

“Nine of our fleet vehicles were damaged in the storm, and our office will need its roof replaced, but the most important thing is that all of our passengers and drivers and staff got home safely that day,” CEO Bethany Langford said.

“Transport is one of the most important services and aspects in all our lives, but we only really realise that when we lose it or struggle to access it,” Miss Langford said.

In addition to this new service The Community Transport Company is celebrating its win last week in the Mid North Coast Business NSW Awards as the most Outstanding Community Organisation.

“We are thrilled to be recognised in this way, and we are now finalists for Outstanding Community Organisation in the statewide Business NSW Awards to be held in Sydney on 26 November,” Miss Langford said.
