Hubject operates a software-based emobility roaming (eRoaming) platform (the “Platform”) through which it connects different market participants in the field of emobility. In particular, Hubject's Platform provides a link between providers of emobility services and operators of charging stations for electric vehicles. In order to connect to the Platform via the dedicated interfaces and to ensure the compatibility between the charging station and the Platform's interfaces required for this purpose, the charging stations are subject to certain physical and software-related requirements inter alia.

With a view to enabling manufacturers of charging systems to appropriately advertise the physical compatibility of their charging systems with the Platform, against payment of a one-time user licence fee Hubject offers them the right to use the seal “Hubject eRoaming Technology” in accordance with the provisions set out hereinbelow, without this constituting a certification by Hubject of the system's compatibility.
