

HYPERALLERGIC

Your Concise Los Angeles Art Guide for Fall 2019

Your list of must-see, fun, insightful, and very Los Angeles art events this season

September 10, 2019

Todd Gray, "Euclidean Gris Gris (Gifty/Versailles)" (2019), three archival pigment prints in artist's frames, 48 5/8 x 41 x 3 5/8 inches (image courtesy the artist, David Lewis, New York, and Meliksetian | Briggs)

Revisiting and Reexamining the Past

TODD GRAY: Euclidean Gris Gris

When: September 3, 2019–May 17, 2020

Where: Pomona College Museum of Art (330 N College Ave, Claremont, California)

Todd Gray, an artist-in-residence at Pomona, is interested in the stories of the African diaspora and how colonialism has impacted them. At the museum gallery, Gray has installed a site-specific wall drawing that challenges our perceptions of the geometric, ordered European garden and the less manicured nature of African landscapes. A series of events with artists, writers, and activists will take place in conjunction with the exhibit.

Original article: <https://hyperallergic.com/516347/your-concise-los-angeles-art-guide-for-fall-2019/>