

Our 5 simple steps to working with you

Part of working with you is understanding your business needs and delivering the most effective solution, integrating into your business and communicating the project progress with you.

Here's how our simple process works

1. Discovery

We work with you to understand what type of projects you would like to take on. We'll focus on what you want to achieve and provide you with our recommendations which include short, medium and long term solutions for your business.

2. Creating your bespoke team

We'll handpick the perfect skill set from our stable of experts, whether it be UX/UI designers, Frontend Software Developers, API experts or Database Specialists.

3. Knowledge Transfer

We'll have an intensive knowledge transfer workshop with the key people in your business from senior business stakeholders to your in-house IT team. From this you'll get a detailed report of your current systems which is your property whether you choose to go ahead with the project or not.

4. Key project specification and roadmap

We'll develop a detailed specification of what we are going to do. Through your dedicated project manager, we'll build our product roadmap and then work in sprints to deliver the bespoke software for your business needs.

5. Ongoing project management

You'll get weekly project update check-ins and weekly scrum calls so you are always up to date with where the project is. We'll also implement full change management practices and all project documentation is completed and updated on an ongoing basis.
