Is your business growth dependent on the acceleration of your digital transformation?

A recent study revealed that digital leaders (the top 10 % of companies leading technology innovation) achieve 2–3x revenue growth as compared to their competitors—a widening divide that Accenture calls the "Digital Achievement Gap."

Accenture Tech Vision Report 2021

The Global Pandemic brought into sharp focus the limitations of the way that we do certain things and how, in order to operate in the new normal, organisations need to accelerate their digital transformation.

Agility is at the heart of this. Our Clients have found that recruiting the right people to make this happen is a barrier.

1   It can take as long as 6 months to get an in-house software delivery team up and running.

2   In a time of uncertainty the financial cost of building software development teams capable of delivering great products and services is time consuming and brings added overheads.

3   Demands on business can change, and the required make-up of the team will change as the project progresses.

Outsourcing your tech project team is an effective solution to accelerate your digital transformation.
