Returned to a 2-day event in 2019 and topped off by a performance by Gin Blossoms, the venerable Fell's Point Fun Festival resurged to draw tens of thousands of visitors to the eclectic, waterfront area. The festival will continue to offer family-oriented areas and activities, as well as the Wolfe Street Beer Garden. The event will also showcase great local bands, musicians, artists, and craftspeople, which are synonymous with the neighborhood. In addition to Fell's Point based businesses, area artisans are regular participants and may submit applications at www.fellspointfest.com

Fell's Point Fun Festival is a fundraising endeavor for The Preservation Society and is managed by Baltimore-based event company Blonde Marketing.

About Fell's Point Fun Fest: The Fell's Point Fun Festival began as a small neighborhood festival 49 years ago as a way to raise money to fight against a project that would have linked I-83 and I-95 by building an elevated highway along the north shore of the Baltimore Harbor. This project would have entailed extensive demolition within Fell's Point, and the highway would have cut off the remainder of the neighborhood from the waterfront. Over the years, The Preservation Society has worked to maintain the 18th and 19th century character of the historic structures within Fell's Point.

The Society operates without cost to the city of Baltimore and it currently maintains many of the buildings as well as running historic tours of Fell's Point. The Fell's Point Fun Festival has grown dramatically over the years and continues to have a large impact in maintaining the historic integrity of Fell's Point for businesses, residents, and visitors.
