Welcome to FORUM 2018! On behalf of the National Alliance of Preservation Commissions Board of Directors, our dedicated staff, and our partners and sponsors, we welcome you to Des Moines.

This city in the heart of the Heartland was grown from a frontier outpost into a bustling center of business, politics, and culture. We’re glad you could join us in the ongoing and important national dialogue to promote vibrant and livable cities through historic preservation.

With the support of our local partners, including the Iowa Department of Cultural Affairs and its State Historic Preservation Office, plus the City of Des Moines, you will have access to an exceptional lineup of programs. The schedule of events features educational sessions, roundtable discussions, tours, and training courses focused on the themes of Main Street and Rural Resources, Advocacy and Community Engagement, Diverse and Underrepresented Resources, Community Resilience and Sustainability, Methods and Materials, and what we like to call Commission Potpourri. With more than 45 sessions and 15 tours, receptions, luncheons, and featured speakers, FORUM 2018 has something for everyone.

We’re especially grateful to our many sponsors and to you, our members, for your continued support. In addition to your membership, your FORUM participation allows NAPC to provide relevant, timely training and a platform for the continued discussion of preservation issues that are important to communities nationwide. While you’re here, please take some time to explore this wonderful city and the many independent shops, restaurants, and historic neighborhoods that make it great. From all of us: WELCOME!
Visitor Information
If you’re looking for maps, dining guides, or transportation information, go to the registration area in the lobby of the Embassy Suites. Catch Des Moines will have plenty of materials in the registration area as well as handouts and guides in the attendee tote bags. Or you can visit the Catch Des Moines website at https://www.catchdesmoines.com/. Throughout the conference, you can always ask one of the many FORUM 2018 volunteers for information. Look for anyone with a “VOLUNTEER” flag on their lanyard or a “VOLUNTEER” t-shirt! Average temperatures in Des Moines in July is a high of 86 and a low of 66 degrees. Comments or questions about FORUM? You can reach us at director@napcommissions.org or visit our FORUM website at regonline.com/napcforum2018.

AIA/AICP Continuing Ed Credits
If you’re pursuing AIA and AICP continuing education credits, please pick-up blank forms with instructions located at registration. Nearly all of the sessions and tours qualify for AIA and AICP credits!

Iowa History 101
Want to learn about Iowa history? On Friday, keep an eye out for the bright blue Winnebago parked outside the FORUM hotel. The “Iowa History 101” mobile museum houses an array of artifacts from the State Historical Museum of Iowa, with fun facts about the writer who created Nancy Drew, the inventor of the digital computer, and the activist who helped desegregate Iowa’s public schools almost 90 years before Brown v. Board of Education.

Registration Hours

CR Surveyor App Display
Come test out the new and improved CRSurveyor App! CRSurveyor is a mobile survey tool developed for cultural resources. NAPC, the National Park Service, and GISinc. have an interactive display in the atrium of the Embassy Suites Hotel where you can learn more about the latest version of the CR Surveyor app and discover how to test this survey app throughout downtown Des Moines. The CRSurveyor application allows field surveyors to use mobile tablets or smartphones to collect data and photographs in an integrated fashion. Please bring your iOS/Android device so you can participate in the project and test out the app!

During FORUM, sample field survey data can be entered directly into the app. In order to participate, please download the “Collector for ArcGIS” app from your app store and stop by the survey table in the atrium to get your instructions and a one-page guide on navigating CRSurveyor.

Frank Lloyd Wright and Prairie School Architecture in Mason City  TICKETED TOUR
7:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Departure from the Embassy Suites Locust Street Entrance
1.5 AIA / AICP

In 2013, Condé Nast named Mason City, Iowa one of the world’s 20 best cities for architecture lovers. This all-day bus tour to Mason City will highlight the work of Frank Lloyd Wright and his disciples. Our first stop will be the restored Historic Park Inn, the only remaining hotel in the world designed by Frank Lloyd Wright. Following lunch in one of the hotel’s historic spaces with the architects who planned the restoration, participants will travel to the Rock Crest - Rock Glen residential neighborhood designed by Wright’s former employees Walter Burley Griffin and Marion Mahony Griffin. We will tour Wright’s Stockman House and the Architectural Interpretive Center. Our last stop will be an exclusive tour of two private houses designed in the Prairie School style by Griffin and Wright associate William Drummond.

Preservation in Rural America: Greenfield and Winterset  TICKETED TOUR
8:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.
Departure from the Embassy Suites Locust Street Entrance
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

Some of the most impactful preservation work in Iowa is being done in the state’s rural communities. This tour will highlight the preservation efforts underway in two county seats near Des Moines. Greenfield boasts the recently... rehabilitated Greenfield Hotel and Warren Opera House (2013 National Preservation Honor Award). Nearby Winterset received national exposure in 1992 with the publication of the book The Bridges of Madison County and the movie of the same name in 1995. Here participants will visit the courthouse square and have a panel discussion on rural preservation at a recently rehabilitated movie theatre. After lunch, participants can chose to visit either the John Wayne Birthplace & Museum or The Iowa Quilt Museum. The last stop will be one of Madison County’s iconic covered bridges and a rural school.

Des Moines has a long tradition of using public art to enhance buildings and public spaces. This practice began in the 1870s with the carving of the pediment sculpture on the state capitol to the most recent installation by Japanese artist Yayoi Kusama. Join us for this tour of Des Moines’ downtown architecture and public art. Highlights include the Iowa State Capitol grounds and the Pappajohn Sculpture Park with stops in between. Bicycles and helmets will be available. Attendees who can bring their own bikes and helmets are encouraged to do so.

This tour will explore the City of Des Moines’ successful partnerships to preserve and give new life to two city-owned historic properties. Through this initiative, the city’s public library (1903) has been converted into the World Food Prize Headquarters and Fire Station #1 (1938) has been adapted as the Des Moines Social Club. Participants will learn how these partnerships were developed and funded, how they have worked and how these two buildings were sensitively rehabilitated for new uses.

Bursting at the Seams: Development Pressure and Community Response
8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.
Salon E
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

Raleigh, North Carolina’s national visibility as a great place to live, work and play, brings increased pressure on limited historic resources. Residential and commercial development projects put resources at risk. Learn how preservation planners, the community, and the Raleigh HDC are reacting to the pace of growth. The session will highlight how Raleigh is using creative tools and partnerships to be nimble and preserve historic resources, expanding both preservation’s friends and methods.

Lobbying for Change: Winning Preservation and Influencing People
8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.
Salon AC
1.5 AIA / AICP

“Lobbying” strikes fear in the hearts of many passionate preservationists. You want me to ask an elected official for something? Well, yes! We are advocates as we work and volunteer to help preserve the historic places we love. You are the best person to share your passion and let them know why an issue is important. This session features folks who have effectively made a difference at the local, state, and national level. Be inspired to elicit change!

Beyond CLG Certification: What Comes Next?
8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.
Mississippi/Missouri
1.5 AIA / AICP
Your local government did the hard work to obtain your CLG status from the National Park Service. What comes next? This session, intended for newly minted CLGs and those in the program for decades, will cover the steps your historic preservation commission can take to be active, visible, and effective in your community. Several case studies from around the country will be used to illustrate how a high-functioning CLG can make a difference.

Window Rehab Demonstration
During breaks and lunch from 10:00 a.m. – 3:00 p.m.
Embassy Suites Atrium
Preservationists know that the rehabilitation of historic windows are both an opportunity and a challenge. Stop by the Atrium on Friday to watch a wood window rehab demonstration and learn about the techniques and materials used to preserve this important historic feature.

Design Review with Limited Resources
10:15 a.m. - 11:45 a.m.
Salon E
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW
Design review commissions around the country work to preserve historic structures, but they vary in how they operate and on the resources available, including the type of staff support provided by the local government. This session builds on a roundtable discussion at FORUM 2016, which explored how commissions could conduct their business without professional staff. Learn what options are available to commissions from the perspective of local and statewide governments, as well as private consultants. Participants will receive a copy of NAPC’s “Design Review with Limited Resources.”

Planning for Historic Properties in Flood-Prone Areas
10:15 a.m. - 11:45 a.m.
Mississippi/Missouri
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

This session addresses what is currently known about how climate change threatens coastal communities’ cultural and historic heritage, and what has and can be done to combat those circumstances. The importance of developing a hazard mitigation plan that identifies the risks associated with climate change and sets in motion strategies and tools for protecting heritage from the cycle of repeated damage will be illustrated, with Maryland as a best practice model. Public and private resiliency efforts in Newport, Rhode Island, will serve to illustrate the range of activity that one community can undertake to address sea level rise.

Living Heritage: Strategies for Managing Cultural Properties and Sustainable Development
1:00 p.m. - 2:30 p.m.
Mississippi/Missouri
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

The cities of San Antonio and San Francisco are experiencing the pressure of supporting new economic development while protecting community character and social heritage. Often the properties affected aren’t significant for their architecture, but rather for the culture—the living heritage—they reflect. Traditional design guidelines aren’t necessarily sufficient for evaluating and protecting these resources. This session will examine efforts in both cities to develop new tools in managing and treating culturally significant properties.

Uncommon Modern: Advocacy for Mid-Century Resources
1:00 p.m. - 2:30 p.m.
Scott’s Landing
1.5 AIA / AICP

A common obstacle to preservation of mid-twentieth-century structures is that these buildings are thought to be both too young and too ugly to qualify as historic resources. Changing the way communities perceive mid-century buildings is essential to their successful preservation. Many organizations have found success through creative and uncommon advocacy efforts. Attendees will learn about “uncommon” advocacy projects and campaigns in Houston, Michigan and Nevada that they can adapt to their own cities.

There’s Life in the Old Thing Yet! Rethinking Older Historic Districts
2:45 p.m. - 4:15 p.m.
Mississippi/Missouri
1.5 AIA / AICP

Many historic districts across the nation were designated decades ago. It is only recently, however, that the more contemporary aspects of older districts have begun to be considered by regulatory bodies and other interested parties. In many cases that effort has focused on architecture rather than historic context and association. This session will illustrate the importance of the recent historical inquiry in older districts, particularly as it relates to underrepresented communities and historical events.

With 150 National Register listed structures, 27 National Historic Districts, 2 National Historic Landmarks, 22 Local Historic Landmarks, and 3 Local Historic Districts, Des Moines’ historic neighborhoods are a dynamic part of our award winning capital city.

Preserving our past to build our bright future.

Vibrant capital city.
Alive downtown.
Great neighborhoods.

Welcome home.
There are still plenty of good buildings lost, and plenty more that are renovated and altered out of all resemblance to their original condition. But there is also a greater willingness than ever before to get to the essence of a work of architecture and try to bring out once again the qualities it had when it was new.

Sherman Hill: A Preservation Success Story
8:30 a.m. - 11:45 a.m.  TICKETED TOUR
Departure from the Embassy Suites Locust Street Entrance

Sherman Hill, a beautiful Victorian neighborhood established in the 1870s, was the city’s first local historic district. After decades of decline, residents began a revitalization of the neighborhood in the 1970s and the transformation has been dramatic. Residents have reduced the number of houses tagged for demolition, lowered crime, and increased property values using historic preservation and other tools. Join some of the neighborhood’s preservation leaders for this tour and roundtable discussion where they will share some of the strategies employed over the past four decades.

Beyond Design Review: Building Community Support and Engagement
8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.
Salon E
1.5 AIA / AICP

Preservation efforts are most successful when there is strong community support and a clear, consistent public engagement strategy. Commissions should provide information for applicants to be successful in the design review process. They should also convey the economic, social, and environmental benefits of historic preservation, and instill a deep interest in the community’s heritage. This presentation will showcase creative ways to engage the broader community, utilize technology and social media to expand programmatic reach, and foster relationships with local partners to optimize results.

Not Just Empty Space: Documenting and Protecting Historic Streetscapes
8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.
Salon FG
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

Historic district documentation has traditionally focused on architectural resources, but in recent years people have come to recognize the importance of setting and the surrounding landscape matrix. The adaptation of a commercially-available, cloud-based app for cell phones and tablets makes it possible for volunteers to inventory the landscape of their own historic neighborhood. Participation in such a project not only draws attention to a frequently ignored resource, but also supports historic preservation advocacy.

Town +/- Gown: The Challenges and Opportunities of Historic Preservation in College Towns
8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.
Mississippi/Missouri
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

Municipal governments in college towns like Ames, IA, and Columbia, MO, can find themselves working in a vacuum when the local university—often the area’s primary economic engine, as well as a tax-exempt landowner—operates independent of land use and historic preservation plans. However, when a university is a good steward and partner in local decision-making, benefits accrue to both town and gown. Session participants will impart their experiences in navigating the challenges of shared jurisdictions.

Preservation in Economically Challenged Communities
10:15 a.m. - 11:45 a.m.
Salon E
1.5 AIA / AICP

Preservation in communities with few economic resources can be a daunting, but not insurmountable, challenge. The communities of Ottumwa and Dubuque, Iowa, and Reading, Pennsylvania, have used a variety of tools to promote good preservation decisions while still being responsive to their community’s specific needs and economic conditions. These communities have created partnerships, catalyzed reinvestment, encouraged affordable housing, promoted job training, and enacted policies to ensure that preservation is part of the revitalization story.

The Challenges of Countywide Historic Preservation Commissions
1:00 p.m. - 2:30 p.m.
Mississippi/Missouri
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

Historic preservation commissions that were established to designate and evaluate historic resources in an entire county can be challenged by issues related to the size and diversity of their jurisdictions. Further, such commissions often have limited funding, their programs may not be well known, their staff may be overburdened, and they may have difficulty finding qualified commissioners. In this session, panelists will discuss all of these issues and more, and suggest creative approaches to addressing problematic situations.

Elevating Buildings—Lowering Standards?
2:45 p.m. - 4:15 p.m.
Salon FG
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

Communities across the country are facing increased flooding challenges from rising sea levels and extreme weather events. To avoid repeated flooding and to meet federal requirements, many buildings are now being elevated from several feet to up to nine feet above the ground. For historic properties this can be in conflict with design guidelines and a loss of architectural integrity. This session will focus on the issues facing historic areas and districts which are prone to flooding and the alternatives available for elevating buildings while still maintaining building and district character.

Out of Sight, Out of Mind: HPCs & Archaeological Resources
2:45 p.m. - 4:15 p.m.
Mississippi/Missouri
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

Less visible than buildings and structures, archaeological resources play an important role in understanding the built environment, properties that have been lost, and the cultures that inhabited the land before our current communities took shape. Learn how historic preservation commissions across the country have conducted archaeological surveys to better understand and share their community’s history with the public, amended their preservation ordinances to strengthen protections for archaeological resources, and developed proactive review protocols and partnerships.

Preservationists who write historic district protections know this: when you’ve lost the original windows, you’ve lost the integrity and character.

Homeowners who want new windows can be comforted by this: Indow inserts will make their old windows perform like new double-panes.
Dealing with Controversial Commemorative Monuments and Memorials
8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.
Salon E
1.5 AIA / AICP

Historic districts are generally located in the heart of the community, and often encompass significant public spaces that contain monuments and memorials. But, what is a commission to do when these memorials reflect an unpleasant and uncomfortable part of our history? Monuments to the Confederacy, Christopher Columbus and colonization abound in historic districts throughout the country and have become targets of protests and vandalism. Learn from the experiences of communities that have fostered a public dialogue related to these monuments.

Section 106: Innovative Mitigation Measures, a Discussion and Lessons Learned
8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.
Salon AC
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act can be an excellent example of consultation and collaboration in progressing local preservation initiatives. During the Section 106 process to mitigate the loss of historic properties there are often opportunities and funding for local governments to undertake creative preservation projects. A representative from the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation will discuss the role of citizens and local governments in the Section 106 process and representatives from Mason City and Cedar Rapids, Iowa, will discuss how Section 106 impacted recovery efforts in the wake of devastating flooding in the Cedar River watershed in June 2008.

Saving Places Through Preservation Advocacy:
The James River at Jamestown Case Study
8:30 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.
Salon FG
1.5 AIA / AICP

Sometimes taking direct action is the best way to preserve a historic place. The campaign to save the James River near Jamestown from a destructive transmission line will be used as a case study to teach attendees concrete steps to plan and execute a successful preservation advocacy campaign. Attendees will be able to apply these steps to their own preservation problem and develop a comprehensive public outreach, lobbying, press and legal strategy action plan.

Terrace Hill and Salisbury House  TICKETED TOUR
9:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.
Departure from the Embassy Suites Locust Street Entrance
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

This tour will give participants an opportunity to see two of Des Moines’ most important historic houses. Terrace Hill (NHL), designed in the French Second Empire style, was built by land speculator and banker B.F. Allen. Restored with period furnishings in the 1970s, Terrace Hill is now the Governor’s Residence. Salisbury House, a Tudor Revival mansion was built by the Weeks family who made their fortune in cosmetics. Modeled after King’s House in Salisbury, England, the architects enhanced the sense of age and authenticity by importing historic materials from England including roofing tile from Lord Nelson’s estate in Wiltshire. Salisbury House also has an important collection of fine art, rare books and Native American artifacts.

Infill Construction in Historic Districts—Is It Compatible?
10:15 a.m. - 11:45 a.m.
Salon E
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW

Historic districts are established so the community can manage change while maintaining the area’s essential character. The design and construction of new structures and additions within historic districts can have a huge impact on the overall district. In this interactive session, you get to determine whether the new construction meets the Secretary’s Standards! Several examples of infill construction will be presented, and the audience will discuss the merits of the project.

Preserving Preservation for the Next Generation
10:15 a.m. - 11:45 a.m.
Salon AC
1.5 AIA / AICP

The preservation community is dedicated to preserving historic buildings for the future, but much of this work involves planning and regulations. The physical work of preservation cannot be completed without skilled craftsmen. Is the field doing enough to ensure that the knowledge of traditional craftsmanship and the preservation trades will continue to exist in the future? Panelists will discuss the current state of traditional building trades and how to encourage members of the next generation to become skilled craftspeople.

Do We Care About That? Deciding What to Regulate
10:15 a.m. - 11:45 a.m.
Salon FG
1.5 AIA / AICP / HSW
Though design guidelines are all based on the Secretary of the Interior’s Standards, they vary in what and how they regulate. Each community defines their local character and how to preserve it, balancing preservation with public support, practicality, and economics. Where does your community stand? If you can’t see it, do you still regulate it? If it’s reversible, does it matter? Come see how design guidelines from across the country compare.
