CASE STUDY

La violencia es real:
a website to raise awareness of OGBV and provide information, resources, and support for those who have experienced or are at risk of experiencing this form of violence.

PROBLEM ADDRESSED

There is not enough awareness and understanding of OGBV among the public, and sometimes survivors may not even be aware that what they are experiencing is OGBV. For people who experience OGBV, there is often a lack of support and resources available.

STAKEHOLDERS INVOLVED

This is a TEDIC website supported by:

- Indela, Latin America
- Civicus, global
- Derechos Digitales, Chile

APPROACH

La Violencia Es Real is a website that aims to educate the public on the effects of digital gender violence and promote safe and respectful online behavior.

It provides information on the different types of digital gender violence, including cyberstalking, online harassment, and non-consensual sharing of intimate images, among others.

It also offers resources for victims and survivors, including tips for staying safe online, information on how to report abuse, and a directory of organizations that provide support and assistance.

IMPACT

Impact data is not available, but providing this information and resources, the website aims to help create a safer and more equitable digital world for everyone, especially for women and those who identify as part of the LGTBIQ+ community.
