An executive desk and meeting table that is perfectly proportioned, appointed with luxurious materials, sleekly integrated with technology, and unexpectedly equipped with an adjustable-height surface. HELM is an executive table that has it all. A beautifully sculpted metal base supports a full range of surface shapes and materials. Technology is invisibly delivered to the adjustable-height surface with graceful efficiency, and a valet drawer elegantly stores work tools.

HELM table desks seamlessly integrate with HALCON private office and open plan solutions to create beautiful, modern work spaces.

“The mission of HELM was to design height-adjustable meeting tables that appear weightless. The technical conditions are extremely difficult, and with most solutions the work is carried out with lifting columns that reach down to the ground. We wanted exactly the opposite: an elegant, light, and filigree structure that carries the column.”

HELM extends beyond executive desking and into collaborative spaces.

HELM is a variable, parametric system with which all necessary table configurations can be created, regardless of size or shape.

HELM offers smartly integrated cable management and technology, including wireless charging, USB-C surface connectivity, and more.

With height-adjustability, technology integration, and a valet drawer to elegantly store work tools, HELM is the ultimate executive desking solution.
