CITYAGE
LOS ANGELES:

SHAPING THE NEXT LOS ANGELES

The United States is carrying out an historic reinvestment in its infrastructure and cities.

As host to both the 2026 World Cup and the 2028 Olympic Games, the 2029 version of Los Angeles can show America - and the world - how to build that future.

It's now the time to do it.

#buildthefuture #cityage

THEMES

Re-invent transit and mobility through smart data-sharing and new technologies

Implement anti-displacement strategies and other initiatives to ensure equitable distribution of the economic benefits of major events

Revitalize public-private partnerships, and deliver tech-enabled infrastructure

Use design, technology and renewable energy systems to decarbonize urban operations

Add new urban innovations like electric urban aviation to its infrastructure

Foster both digital and physical connectivity

Weave resiliency into new and rebuilt infrastructure

11:00 am Panel 3: LA's Transportation Future

Los Angeles is committing $120 billion to transportation funding, at the same time as public satisfaction with transit is at its lowest in a decade. This session will look at how the region can reinvigorate mobility and transit across the region.

- Hilary Norton, California Transportation Commissioner, & Executive Director, FASTLinkDTLA
- Connie Llanos, General Manager, Los Angeles Department of Transportation
- Michelle Boehm, Specialist Leader, California Transportation Lead, Deloitte
- Monica Bouldin, Deputy Chief Customer Experience, LA Metro
 - Panel Chair: John Rossant, Chairman of NewCities Foundation; CEO of CoMotion

11:35 am Break #2

11:50 am Table-side breakout discussions

Each table will dive into one key question in this focused session that encourages group participation and engagement. This session will ensure that every attendee has their voice heard and an opportunity to network with like-minded professionals while gaining insights and ideas to take back with them. We'll subsequently present those answers in a report after the CityAge Los Angeles event. Executed under Chatham House Rule, no comments will be attributed to anyone specifically, to encourage a free flow of ideas and discussion.

12:30 pm Panel 4: One LA Approach to the Region's Infrastructure

Billions in federal infrastructure funding is on the table. How can the LA region best leverage it through a "One Los Angeles" approach across the metropolis?

- Mark Pestrella, Director, Los Angeles County Public Works
- Steve Hamilton, Senior Manager | West Coast Infrastructure Lead, Deloitte
- Amar Azucena Cid, Deputy Director, Community Investments and Planning, California Strategic Growth Council
 - Panel Chair: Matt Horton, Director, State Policy and Initiatives, Accelerator for America

1:00 pm Panel 5: Open Architecture for Data Sharing

Data is the new infrastructure - this session will look at how to build the open architecture for software that can support more inclusive and livable cities, as well as more access to services and opportunity.

- Jeanne Holm, Deputy Mayor for Budget & Innovation, City of Los Angeles
- Gene Oh, CEO, Tranzito
- Claudia Preciado, Director of Regional Growth, Replica
 - Panel Chair: Steph Stoppenhagen, Sales Director - Connectivity, Commercial & Industrial, Black & Veatch
