INTRODUCTION

Andy Kopplin
President & CEO
Greater New Orleans Foundation
WELCOME!

- Thank you for your time and commitment to being here.
- Your presence shows a clear dedication to ensuring we are working collectively toward a more resilient and sustainable future for our region.
- We appreciate your service to your community and to our region.
WHY ARE WE HERE? WHAT IS THE NEXT 100 YEAR'S CHALLENGE?

• We created this challenge as our way of celebrating the Greater New Orleans Foundation’s centennial year.

• We wanted to challenge ourselves to identify the things we could do that will help shape the trajectory of our region for the next 100 years.
Our goal: Help you secure federal funding for the development of resilient infrastructure which will strengthen our communities in the face of disaster.

Last year, the federal government made $2 billion available for one such program—Building Resilient Infrastructure and Communities—otherwise known as BRIC.

No one in our region was awarded funding.

So, we want to work with you to bring the money home to Louisiana!
With the $100,000 we are here to help you win, you’ll have the ability to refine plans and to ensure that your great ideas can be turned into comprehensive and actionable proposals that can win the big money to help you implement your project.
WHAT YOU CAN EXPECT TODAY

• During this pre-registration deadline webinar, we will review various components of the Next 100 Years Challenge and answer your questions.
• The webinar will be recorded for those who cannot attend this online session.
• You can view the webinar on Next100YearsChallenge.org
NEXT 100 YEARS CHALLENGE

An initiative of the
GREATER NEW ORLEANS FOUNDATION