Of course, there is a lot to be improved, but with time I will always be trying to add new things. In January I will release another update bringing new animations and events! I hope you all have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year! Next year will have new updates! Bringing new and cooler stuff! Thanks to everyone for the support over the last few months, I did what I could to stay active in development. @# Note: Probably today or tomorrow I will release a Linux version (if all goes well), if there are any errors in the development of this version I will also let you know because it is under test.
