Aaron Carter was born in Tampa, Florida on December 7th, 1987. He is the youngest of five children to his parents Robert and Jane Carter. As a young boy, Aaron began his music career at the age of seven as the lead singer for a band called "Dead End." His first solo appearance came when he was nine years old, opening for the Backstreet Boys in Berlin, Germany. Aaron's first album, self-titled "Aaron Carter," was released on December 1st, 1997. The album gained significant success globally, reaching gold status in several countries including Spain, Denmark, Canada, Norway, and Germany. His second album "Aaron's Party (come get it)" was released in the United States in September 2000, becoming an instant hit with hits like "Aaron's Party," "I Want Candy," and "That's How I Beat Shaq." This led to a successful tour and created a fan base among pre-teen and teenage audiences worldwide. Aaron went on to release his third album "Oh Aaron" in August 2001, featuring a duet with his brother Nick. His fourth album "Another Earthquake" was released in September 2002, followed by the "Most Requested Hits" compilation album in 2003. Carter regularly toured around the world performing for millions of fans and became one of the top pop acts of his time. He also appeared on several television shows including "Lizzie McGuire," "Sabrina, The Teenage Witch," and "7th Heaven."
