Jamaica worksheet.

Jamaica, a Caribbean island country, is known for its rich culture and natural beauty. Located in the Greater Antilles, it's the third-largest island after Cuba and Hispaniola. With a population of nearly 3 million people, Jamaica has two cities: Kingston, the capital, and Montego Bay, a popular tourist destination. The country has a long history dating back to Christopher Columbus' discovery in 1494. The Spanish established settlements, but the English eventually took control, leading to the abolition of slavery in 1833. Jamaica gained independence from the UK in 1962, but faced economic challenges that left many Afro-Jamaicans feeling disappointed. Jamaica's geography is marked by the Blue Mountains and its stunning beaches along the coast. The island has a tropical climate, making it an attractive destination for tourists. Famous landmarks include Dunn's River Falls, the Blue Lagoon, and Port Royal, offering something for everyone to enjoy. Due to its location, Jamaica is susceptible to hurricanes from the Atlantic Ocean, but its diverse ecosystems and tropical climate support a wide range of flora and fauna. Protected areas, such as wetlands, caves, and rainforests, provide habitat for various animals, including bats, wild boars, crocodiles, iguanas, snakes, treefrogs, and fish. The national bird is the doctor bird. Jamaica's plant life has changed over time due to European settlement and agriculture. The introduction of new plants like sugarcane and citrus trees led to a significant shift in the island's flora. With approximately 3,000 native flowering plant species, Jamaica is home to numerous botanical gardens. Fauna includes a diverse range of wildlife, including bats, reptiles, frogs, and fish. Land mammals are mostly limited to bat species, with only one rodent species found on the island. Jamaica has about 50 species of reptiles and over 150 species of butterflies. Jamaica is a popular tourist destination known for its beautiful beaches, majestic waterfalls, and vibrant culture. Visitors from around the world come to experience the island's famous jerk chicken, which is made with Jamaican jerk spice. Red Stripe beer and Jamaican Blue Mountain Coffee are also integral parts of the local cuisine. Cricket is the most popular sport in Jamaica, but track and field athletics, boxing, and football are also widely followed. The country has produced many famous athletes, including Usain Bolt, Trevor Berbeck, and Raheem Sterling. The Jamaican flag features a gold saltire that divides the flag into four sections, with green triangles at the top and bottom and black sides. The island is home to the fastest runners in the world, with most coming from the Trelawny region. Jamaicans drive on the left side of the road. Jamaica, located in the Caribbean region, boasts a captivating cultural heritage. Due to its British colonial past, the country has experienced various influences on its languages and customs. The primary language spoken is Jamaican Patois, an English-based creole, while the official language is English. Interestingly, the Taino people, indigenous to Jamaica, maintain their unique Arawakan language. As part of the Northern Hemisphere, Jamaica comprises 14 political divisions, including Kingston as its capital city.
