This year's Best Picture winner was Oppenheimer, which also won both male acting awards since 1959's Ben-Hur. The nominees for the Academy Awards are in and they bring us a diverse selection of films from around the world. The International Feature Film award goes to The Zone of Interest, directed by Jonathan Glazer, while the Best Documentary Feature Film award is given to 20 Days in Mariupol, a film that tells the story of the Siege of Mariupol during the Ukrainian-Russian conflict. The Academy held its 14th annual Governors Awards ceremony on January 9, 2024. During this event, several prestigious awards were presented to distinguished individuals in the film industry. Angela Bassett was honored for her inspiring performances that have captivated audiences worldwide. Mel Brooks was recognized for his comedic genius and extensive body of work. Carol Littleton's commitment to her craft has significantly elevated the art of film editing. Several films received multiple nominations, including Oppenheimer, Poor Things, Killers of the Flower Moon, Barbie, Maestro, Anatomy of a Fall, The Holdovers, and The Zone of Interest. Oppenheimer secured four awards, while Poor Things took home two. Notable presenters included Jamie Lee Curtis, Regina King, Rita Moreno, Lupita Nyong'o, Mary Steenburgen, Chris Hemsworth, Anya Taylor-Joy, Melissa McCarthy, Octavia Spencer, Michael Keaton, Catherine O'Hara, John Cena, Bad Bunny, Dwayne Johnson, Emily Blunt, Ryan Gosling, Danny DeVito, Arnold Schwarzenegger, America Ferrera, Kate McKinnon, Zendaya, Issa Rae, Ramy Youssef, John Mulaney, Cynthia Erivo, Ariana Grande, Nicolas Cage, Brendan Fraser, Ben Kingsley, Matthew McConaughey, Forest Whitaker, Sally Field, Jessica Lange, Charlize Theron, Michelle Yeoh, Al Pacino, and Steven Spielberg. The event also featured musical performances by Billie Eilish and Finneas O'Connell. Performers from various films showcased their talents in a spectacular display of music and dance. Jimmy Kimmel hosted the 96th Academy Awards, marking his return to the stage after the previous year's ceremony. The show was produced by Raj Kapoor, Katy Mullan, Hamish Hamilton, and Molly McNearney, who expressed their excitement about leading the team behind this year's celebration. The new production team brought fresh perspectives and expertise to the event, aiming to create a remarkable experience for all involved.The Oscars ceremony is being hosted by Jimmy Kimmel in his unique blend of humanity and humor. The show's live TV producer, Molly, has collaborated with them to bring an exciting experience to viewers. In a press release, Kimmel shared his excitement about hosting the event for the fourth time. To boost ratings, the Academy and ABC made changes to the ceremony's start time, moving it forward by one hour to 4:00 p.m. PT. This change aims to announce winners in major categories earlier, reducing declining viewership on the East Coast. As a result, the red carpet pre-show was shortened to 30 minutes from its usual 90-minute runtime. The production team worked hard to create a modern stage that invites people in, according to designers Misty Buckley and Alana Billingsley. The stage featured several columns with changing images during awards presentations, such as typewriters for screenwriters and sketches of Best Costume Design nominees. Musician Rickey Minor served as the musical director for the ceremony, while comedian Amelia Dimoldenberg acted as a social media and red carpet correspondent, interviewing nominees at events. Choreographer Mandy Moore oversaw Ryan Gosling and Mark Ronson's performance, which paid homage to the song "Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend." The Governors Awards were initially scheduled for November 18 but were postponed due to labor disputes. Actress Michelle Pfeiffer was supposed to co-present Best Picture with Al Pacino but couldn't attend, so he presented it solo. The Academy has introduced new representation and inclusion standards starting from the 96th awards. These rules require films to satisfy certain criteria by hiring people from underrepresented groups to be eligible for the Best Picture category.Data on a film's gender, race, and disability was highlighted, alongside Academy FAQs noting British films meeting BFI inclusion standards would satisfy diversity requirements. When nominations were revealed, nine of ten Best Picture contenders had collectively earned $1.09 billion at North American box offices. Barbie led nominees with $636 million in domestic receipts, followed by Oppenheimer at $326 million, then Killers of the Flower Moon ($67 million), Poor Things ($20.4 million), The Holdovers ($18.7 million), Past Lives ($10.9 million), American Fiction ($7.9 million), Anatomy of a Fall ($3.9 million), and The Zone of Interest ($1.6 million). Maestro's domestic figures remained undisclosed due to Netflix's policy. Oppenheimer's Best Picture win made it the highest-grossing winner since The Lord of the Rings: The Return of the King. Robert Lloyd praised the ceremony as "a long night... but not the slog it often is," while Kimmel was called "a reliable, relatable presence." Alison Herman noted the show delivered "entertainment and emotion," commending Gosling's "I'm Just Ken" performance. Daniel Fienberg highlighted Kimmel's ability to "hold together the disparate components" and the five previous winners presenting nominees. Jonathan Glazer faced backlash for his Gaza-related speech, with some misquoting his remarks about Jewish identity. Over 1,000 Jewish industry members criticized his comments, while others defended him. A month later, 450 Jewish film figures supported Glazer. The ABC broadcast averaged 19.49 million viewers, a 4% rise from 2023. It maintained Nielsen ratings at 9.9% but scored lower in 18–49 demographics. The telecast earned seven Primetime Emmy nominations, winning four including Outstanding Variety Special and Outstanding Directing.The Academy Award for Best Variety Special was awarded to the 67th Primetime Emmy Awards' "In Memoriam" segment featuring Andrea Bocelli performing with his son Matteo. The tribute included several notable individuals, such as Michael Gambon, Norman Jewison, Harry Belafonte, Diana Giorgiutti, Alan Arkin, Nitin Chandrakant Desai, Bo Goldman, and Julian Sands. Oppenheimer Dominates Oscar Nominations and Wins Best Picture Award ========== Oppenheimer dominated the Oscars nominations, sweeping several awards, including Best Picture, which it won over Poor Things. The film also took home awards for sound, music, costume design, editing, and production design.Jimmy Kimmel to Host Oscars for Fourth Time will be presented at 96th Academy Awards ========== According to Variety, Oscar ratings might see a boost following recent blockbusters winning Best Picture, like Oppenheimer and Barbie. This could be an indication that the Oscars are trying to revive their reputation in attracting large audiences. The last few years have seen a 20-year curse on blockbusters winning Best Picture being lifted, with many viewers tuning in to watch the awards ceremony. However, it's worth noting that Oscar ratings haven't always been high in recent years. With this trend in mind, one has to wonder whether Oscar ratings will continue to grow and become more competitive. Will this boost be enough to attract new fans to the event, or is it just a fleeting moment in time? Only time will tell if this boost in Oscar ratings will be sustained over time. Until then, we'll have to keep an eye on how things play out. In any case, one thing is clear - the Oscars are looking to make a comeback and regain their status as a major cultural event.Matthew Perry, Richard Lewis, Glenda Jackson and Alexei Navalny Remembered at Oscars ========== Matthew Perry, Richard Lewis, Glenda Jackson and Aleksei Navalny Pay Tribute at Academy Awards
